

Canton ready to act on police reserves

Canton officials are expected to review a legal opinion concerning a proposed police reserve ordinance at the next township board meeting, scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 25 at 8 p.m.

The proposed ordinance, borrowed from Redford Township, outlines the general duties and appointment process of emergency police reserve officers.

CANTON OFFICIALS tabled the ordinance, introduced by Supervisor Robert Greenstein at a recent board meeting, to enable the township attorney to study its legal ramifications.

The proposed ordinance supplements the board's earlier decision to establish an auxiliary police force in the township.

Under a resolution approved by board members last month, 20 township residents will attend a 30-week training program in Redford Township, sponsored by the Southeast Michigan Police Reserve Training Council.

Persons will emerge from the program as fully trained and certified reserve officers, qualified to patrol Canton's streets and enforce local ordinances.

Under the proposed ordinance, auxiliary police officers will patrol large gatherings such as dances, athletic events, parades, carnivals, holiday events and perform other duties assigned by the "police chief"—Canton's supervisor.

RESERVE OFFICERS will receive "compensation established by the board" as well as rights and benefits of workmen's compensation laws, according to the ordinance.

The police chief will train, direct and supervise the reserve officers and establish their mode of dress.

The ordinance prohibits reserve officers to exercise their authority while not on duty under penalty of a maximum $100 fine and 90 days in jail. The ordinance prohibits persons to impersonate a reserve officer.

Under the proposed ordinance, the township supervisor is responsible for reserve officer appointments.

GREENSTEIN, who recently met with police chiefs from surrounding communities, recently outlined an officer screening process for the benefit of board members.

Applicants, he explained, must satisfactorily complete tests and interviews before they are appointed to officer status.

The screening and appointment process will include a test and interview with the Civil Service Commission; an interview with police chiefs of surrounding communities as well as Canton's administration; appointment to the training program; a written test after 100 hours of training; a recommendation from the training school's faculty; and appointments to reserve officer positions.

An "overwhelming" number of applicants have applied for the reserve officer positions so far, Greenstein said.

"We're looking for residents with a clean record who are interested in the township. They're not going to enforce state laws. They're going to be here for visibility and to enforce local ordinances."

Group heads to Chicago on Plymouth post office

A delegation from the City of Plymouth will be flying to Chicago tomorrow (Friday) on a fact-finding mission to determine why a decision was made to abandon plans for a new post office in the city and construct one in Canton Township instead.

City Manager Fred Yockey, Mayor Joe Bida and State Sen. Carl Parsell (R-Plymouth) will travel to Chicago to speak with regional officials of the U.S. Postal Service.

Although the trip will be an attempt to clarify why the Postal Service changed its mind about a new post office in Plymouth, the delegation also will be making a pitch for the need for an expanded or new postal facility in the city.

PLYMOUTH OFFICIALS are upset, not because Canton is expected to get its own post office but because plans have been dropped to build a new facility in the city.

The present post office on Penniman is overcrowded and there is a serious problem finding sufficient space for parking of employee vehicles and postal carrier trucks.

The Postal Services had an option to buy land in the city for a new post office, a parcel which included some land owned by the city.

A disturbing factor for the city is that the Postal Services allowed the option to expire and made a decision against building a new facility in the city without any notification to Plymouth officials.

nothing to do with the decision not to build a new post office in Plymouth.

Postal Services officials also maintain that the decision on the Canton zip and address isn't an automatic prelude to a separate Canton post office. A decision on a separate post office for Canton, they maintain, won't be made for a couple years.

U.S. Rep. William D. Ford (D-Taylor), whose 15th District includes Canton, suggests that the Canton zip and mailing address is an indication that township residents can count on having their own post office in the near future. Canton township officials also expect that to be the case.

THE CHANGE in direction from Postal Services apparently began when Canton government officials began a lobbying effort with Rep. Ford to obtain a Canton post office.

Although Postal Services is an independent business corporation, congressmen still exert a great deal of influence because of their positions of authority.

Canton officials approached Rep. Ford because he is on the House postal committee, and because he has a track record of obtaining post offices for other communities. He had helped POSTAL OFFICIALS carefully choose their words while discussing the Plymouth-Canton post office situation.

The position of the Postal Services is that the decision to grant Canton its own zip code and mailing address has Westland obtain a zip code and mailing address shortly after it became a city, and then was instrumental in the decision to build a new post office in that city.

While the lobbying from Canton to Washington, D.C., was going on, Plymouth officials assumed plans were still valid to build the new post office in the city which would also serve Canton.

The first real suggestion Plymouth officials had of the shift was when Rep. Ford announced the change in a press release.

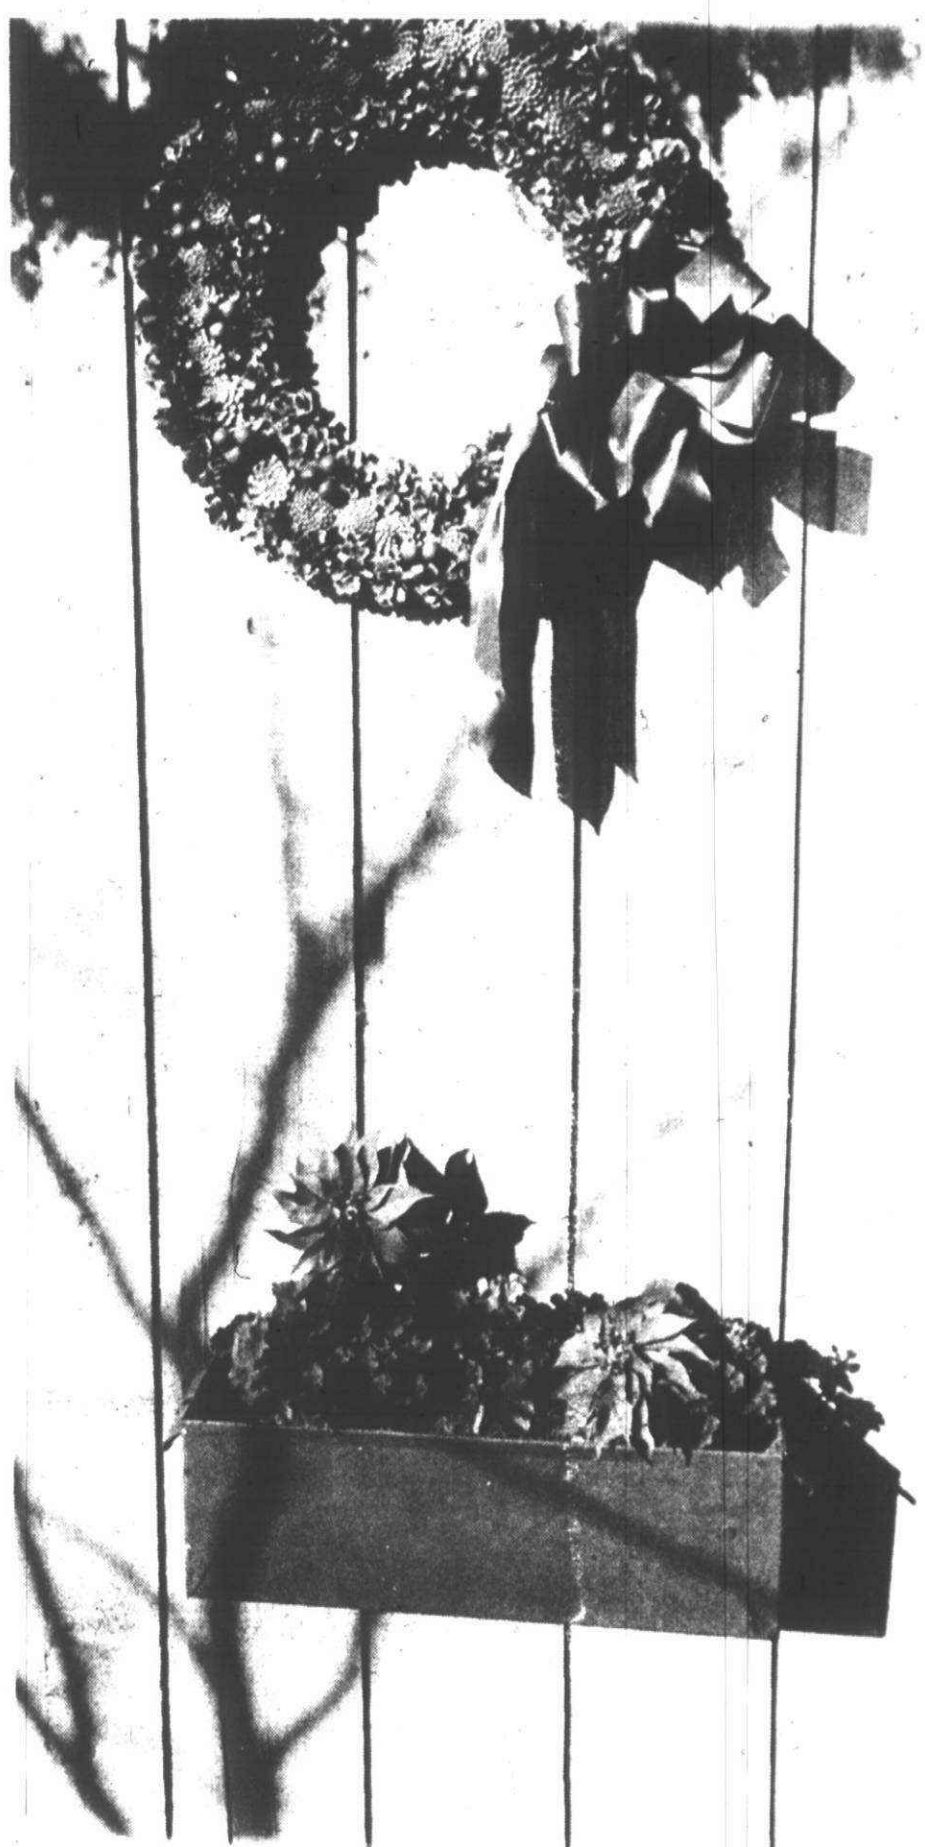

The delegation to Chicago tomorrow wants to find out exactly what the changes in planning entail, the logic behind any changes decided upon, and why communication wasn't maintained with Plymouth officials.

Although the delegation isn't expected to lobby against a Canton post office, it is certain to lobby in favor of a new post office in the city, or a larger post office in another location with more parking.

Canton is presently served by post offices in Plymouth, Wayne, Belleville and Ypsilanti.

Santa arriving in Old Village

Santa Claus will arrive in the area early this year to take up residence in Old Village in Plymouth beginning Saturday, Nov. 22.

To kick off the holiday season, the merchants in Old Village will hold an open house from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 22. Refreshments will be served and Santa will be present to meet youngsters.

CHRISTMAS will really arrive Friday, Nov. 28, with a tree lighting ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in Kellogg Park and stores in downtown Plymouth remaining open until 10 p.m. to serve cookies and beverages.

The next day, Nov. 29, Santa will arrive in Kellogg Park and take up residence in Santa's House in the Park.

From then on, it will be a busy holiday season in the community with a number of activities continuing through December. November 29, 30, for instance, will be the Plymouth Community Arts and Crafts Show in the Masonic Temple and Grange Hall.

The Toys for Tots campaign will be conducted from Dec. 1-23 in National Bank of Detroit. Main and Penniman, sponsored by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce's retail committee.

The Christmas Arts and Crafts Show will be Dec. 5-7 in the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer, and the Goodfellows Paper Sale on Dec. 5 in local industries and Dec. 6 on street corners in Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

On Dec. 7 the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will present its Christmas concert beginning at 4 p.m. in Plymouth Salem High auditorium.

The Mitten Tree, sponsored by the Women's Club of Plymouth, will be up from Dec. 8-20 in the Detroit Edison office at Main and Ann Arbor Trail.

The Santa Parade will be Saturday,

Nov. 29, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in downtown Plymouth.

The Plymouth Lions Club will be conducting its annual candy sale on Dec. 12, 13 and 20 in various locations throughout Plymouth and Plymouth Township.

Holiday fruitcakes are now being sold by the Plymouth Civitans and by the Kiwanis Club of Plymouth. The Salvation Army will be selling its Christmas War Cry magazine Dec. 17 residential areas and will be soliciting in the central business district with the traditional bell-ringers with kettles Dec. 1-24.

A choral concert will be presented Dec. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Salem auditorium, and another Christmas concert Dec. 16 in the Plymouth Canton High auditorium at 8 p.m.

Home fire changes Parsell's attitude

Canton Treasurer Carl Parsell has decided to cast away his official cap when it comes to fire millage issues.

Until last week, the treasurer felt officials should refrain from active support of fire millage issues needed to construct a new firehall.

But that attitude changed last week when a gas leak set Parsell's home, located at 42808 Arlington, on fire. The treasurer now pledges active support of a new firehall and says he may even pass out petitions.

"I always thought the position of township officials was to passively support the new station," Parsell said. "I always said the people should come forward to support the new station. But I'm one of the people too, and I'm taking a different stand now."

Township residents must support a fire millage, if another township firehall is constructed. The new station would supplement Canton's existing firehall at Canton Center and Cherry Hill roads.

For Parsell, the need for another station hit home last week when he drove into his driveway after a hard day's work. The roof and side of his home, located above an outdoor gas meter, were in flame.

Although Parsell does not know the extent of damage in dollar figures, the treasurer said his new home needs a new roof and interior airing because of smoke damage.

No one was in the home at the time of the fire except Parsell's dog, which was unharmed.

Holiday edition

Because next Thursday is the Thanksgiving holiday, your Observer & Eccentric will be delivered Wednesday. All deadlines will be moved up 24 hours—generally Monday instead of Tuesday.

YOUR CARRIER HAS A GROWING JOB

Delivering your Observer & Eccentric involves much more than hauling a sackful of newspapers around the neighborhood twice a week. It's a chance to learn about the world of business by first hand experience, and a chance to grow from that experience.

When your carrier calls to collect this month, he is going to be asking for a 10 cent increase in your subscription rate. It's probably the first time that he has had to deal with the rising costs of operating a business. He's in business for himself and part of that dime insures his success.

The rising cost of living is an unavoidable problem we all face on a daily basis. That's why we've had to increase our rates for carrier service. So when your carrier collects in November, give him an extra dime, and a smile. It will make the growing process just a bit easier.

Livonia OK's league with Plymouth Salem

The Livonia Board of Education Monday opened the door for two of its high schools to "go hunting" for adjacent schools to form a new sports and activities league.

The board's unanimous action of five members and two absent specifically meant an 180-degree turnaround in board practice and would allow two Livonia schools in the same league.

But the board required that at least six schools be in the same league. Only four, Stevenson, Bentley, Plymouth Salem and Redford Union, are interested in forming the new league.

CHARLES Bien, Stevenson Booster Club officer, told the board Monday the three Farmington School District high schools would be interested in joining a new league.

Supt. George Garver, in outlining three potential options for the board, said a four-team league would be unwelcome from a scheduling viewpoint.

The board agreed and after it voted on the issue raised two months ago by the Bentley and Stevenson athletic booster group, Board President Mark Scarr told the administration, "You've got your hunting license."

Effect of sports to be surveyed

A survey to determine the effects of organized athletic programs on students in the State of Michigan will soon focus on students in the Plymouth Community School District and local sports programs.

The Joint Legislative Study Committee on Youth Sports Programs has chosen Plymouth and about 20 other districts in the state as targets of the study, according to Supt. John M. Hoben.

Dr. David Blievernicht of Wayne State University will conduct the survey in Plymouth to determine the effects of agency-sponsored hockey, basketball and baseball programs on school-age youngsters.

School board members recently approved the concept and signaled the study to begin.

No timetable was indicated on how soon efforts would start or conclude on talking adjacent school districts into having one of their high schools join the new league.

During the discussion, Board Trustee Tom Davis said "now's the time" to make a change. "If there is no action, there wouldn't be a possibility again for five or six years."

Bien commented that the Farmington schools "may move immediately" on a league change, even if Livonia doesn't.

THE BOOSTER groups wanted the league realignment for several reasons.

One is that student and parent attendance would improve at road games closer to Livonia and that would be true for the visiting schools playing in Livonia.

That situation would improve gate receipts and school spirit, they said.

Garver outlined three possible options for the board to follow.

The others were to do nothing or have the four interested schools join the existing Northwest Suburban Activities Association, which has schools from adjacent school districts.

If that path was followed, there would be a nine-team league with five teams in one division and four in the other.

But the association indicated that while it is looking for a new school to round out the association at six schools, it wasn't interested in making any major changes now.

Garver reported that a survey of area school superintendents indicated that while many are satisfied with their current league memberships, some would be interested in at least discussing changes in the future.

STEVENSON and Bentley were the most interested because of the distances involved in some of their road games.

Stevenson is in the Inter-Lakes League and travels as far as Waterford and Pontiac. Bentley, in the Suburban Eight, competes against Belleville, Allen Park and Trenton.

In past discussions, the board was told that Churchill and Franklin High were satisfied with their league memberships and didn't want to change.

The possibility of a league realignment has been studied by the high schools' athletic booster groups for 1½ years and by the school administration since last spring.

Board members favoring the realignment were Davis, Scarr, Connie Hierta, Marvin Pridgeon and Carol Strom.

Mrs. Geraldine Joyner was out of town on vacation and Charles Akey just missed taking part in the vote because he was late in getting to the meeting from Bentley Athletic banquet.

Clinic offers rest for parents of disabled

By DENNY COFFMAN

"Love thy neighbor" is more than just an abstract concept at Garden City's Northwestern Guidance Clinic. It's what makes the western Wayne County facility for developmentally disabled children work.

Perhaps the best example can be found in the clinic's "respite care program," which offers parents with mentally retarded children a chance to take a holiday away from the sometimes grueling and heartbreaking task of raising a handicapped child.

THE PROGRAM, devised by the clinic staff, provides valuable rest and recuperation for parents of retarded children, much as the old wartime Army program did for fighting men and women.

For the parents of retarded children, though, the "front lines" are the family living room, dining room, or bedroom—anywhere, in fact, where a retarded child and his parents and siblings come in contact.

"It's hard enough for so-called normal parents and children to get along," says the clinic's director of residences, Craig Daniels. "But the problems are amplified many times if the child is not normal."

"The respite care program gives parents a chance to devote some attention to persons in the family who are normal and have no disabilities, even if it's just for a weekend or a week every six months or so.

"It gives these parents the strength to continue," says Daniels.

PARENTS with retarded children register with the clinic, and the clinic then goes to work, to try to match a retarded child with a compatible foster family, thoroughly trained and licensed by the state to accept the child in its home.

"The real parents come to our clinic and ask for some kind of relief," says Daniels, "because it's hard to work day in and day out with these children."

"They can't follow the normal pattern available to normal families. Normal options just aren't open to them. For example, they can't just go out and find themselves a babysitter or ask their relatives to help. In some cases, relatives do help, but other parents simply cannot find options on their own."

There are several immediate reasons why the family of a retarded child comes to the clinic. An illness or a death in the family may require the parent to leave town, a difficult matter with a retarded child in the house.

Or the reason can be simple tension, and the need to go out to a movie, or take a breather—a chance to let down their guard and relax.

THE RESPITE care program is invaluable for parents still attending school and facing examinations, too.

But the program is equally rewarding to foster parents who accept the children into their homes.

Mark Puz, 26, and his wife Marsha, 24, of Dearborn, have two children of their own, but offered to accept Stevie, a 10-year-old with the developmental age of a two-year-old.

"We know we're not going to have any more children of our own," says Mrs. Puz, "and we like the idea of providing a temporary home for a child like Stevie."

"We really hadn't thought about dealing with retarded children, though we once tried to adopt two boys who needed a home, and found out that someone else had adopted them."

The Puzes and Stevie's real parents got together before the respite weekend, just to get acquainted. "It was just so that Stevie would get used to us with his parents here," says Mrs. Puz.

Except for "some trying moments," she says the respite weekend went well.

"Stevie fell in love with our two children. He was a well behaved boy, but I found it a little difficult to understand how such a big boy could be such a baby."

She says she found it hard to comprehend, that Stevie had only reached the developmental age of her own baby daughter. Stevie, she says, woke up six or eight times during the night, more than her daughter.

THOUGH THE nocturnal awakenings were annoying for Mrs. Puz, she only had to endure them for one weekend. Stevie's real parents put up with sleepless nights every night of the year, except for the brief respite they enjoy with the intervention of the Northwestern Guidance Clinic.

Mrs. Puz says that Stevie's mother informed her that the respite weekend offered the first complete night's sleep she has had in eight years.

"I could finally sit down and read a book," the woman told her.

At least Stevie can feed and dress himself, and is toilet trained. His attention span is limited, but television absorbs him for as long as 45 minutes at a time.

When her husband tickled and played with her two children, Stevie eventually joined in, too, and was entertained just as though he, too, were just a baby—which he was, mentally.

Stevie has infinite patience for what Mrs. Puz calls "busy work"—stacking newspapers or removing dishes from the dishwasher. He will never be completely independent.

For the Puzes, it was their first experience with retarded children, but they expect to volunteer for others, in spite of their busy work and social schedule.

"I felt that I was growing within my own self," says Mrs. Puz. "I was becoming more of a complete person, because of the experience with Stevie."

ACCORDING TO Daniels, there are 150,000 retarded persons in the western Wayne County area. Those with "moderate" disabilities would qualify for the respite care program.

The main benefit to the children, is that it allows them to live with a trained babysitter in a home environment, rather than in an institutional one.

Though the foster parents receive about $10 a day to meet expenses from the state, "the money is only minimal," says Daniels.

"Foster parents do this out of the generosity of their hearts," he says.

School board OKs advisory concept

Some residents of the Plymouth Community School District may soon study school-related issues and report their findings to the board.

The Plymouth School Board has unanimously approved the concept of a citizen advisory council and directed Florence Beier, administrative assistant for community services, and Sam Ulsaker, administrative assistant for research, program planning and federal projects, to outline specifics of the plan.

A total of 144 residents, divided into work groups of 12, would compose the proposed committee, according to the suggestions.

The groups, according to the proposal, would meet for a 12-week period to study such possible issues as transportation, modular scheduling, maintenance, reading programs and vocational education.

"We would like some genuine community involvement and advice to the school board about what direction to move," Mrs. Beier explained. "This will only be a recommending group."

The school board is expected to act on the plan at its Nov. 24 meeting.

Canton to assume tree-planting duties

Canton officials have taken one more step to ensure the "leafy" rights of future township residents.

According to a resolution approved by the board of trustees, the township will take over the responsibility of developers to plant trees between the sidewalk and the curb on each newly developed subdivision lot.

Township officials will use $50 in "front" money, previously deposited by developers to guarantee their tree-planting intentions, to purchase the trees.

Under the procedure approved by the board, the township clerk will periodically advertise for tree bids. Under stipulations of the contract, nurseries will plant the trees and guarantee them for one year.

The procedure conforms with the township's tree planting and preservation ordinance, approved by the board of trustees last spring.

Under one section of that ordinance, developers are required to plant one 10-foot tree between the sidewalk and curb on each subdivision lot of 75-foot frontage or less and two trees on lots exceeding 75 feet in width.

The township's promise to take over tree-planting responsibilities will carry out officials' intentions to plant different varieties of trees in different subdivisions, says Canton Treasurer Carl Parsell.

"This would give us complete control to make sure the varieties would be varied. We would also make sure the trees would be guaranteed."

W-W teachers get better insurance

Wayne-Westland Board of Education Monday agreed to offer an alternative insurance plan to members of the Wayne-Westland Education Association (WWEA).

Despite the vociferous objection from trustee Fred Warmbier, who sought to have teachers laid off to make up the $65,000 addition to the budget, the board agreed to offer the insurance plan which was awarded in arbitration to the WWEA.

Under the plan, the district will provide an alternative insurance program comprised of vision care, full family coverage, supplemental term life insurance in an additional amount of $5,000, and up to the dollar difference between the cost of premiums for these two benefits and $33 per month to be applied toward other optional benefits.

A teacher whose spouse is employed in the district receives full family health insurance and can receive the alternative insurance program.

A teacher whose spouse is employed outside the district may choose either a full family health insurance program or the alternative program.

Formerly, district teachers could not benefit from additional coverage from the school district if their spouses worked outside the district and were covered by insurance.

WARMBIER'S OBJECTIONS centered on what he considered was renegotiation of the teacher contract and the fact the $65,000 could be used to purchase more supplies and texts.

"We're renegotiating the contract," Warmbier said. "We never intended to give teachers $33 a month in extra coverage. I'm positive Hugh Ryan (WWEA director) never intended this."

Warmbier moved to amend the motion call for the addition of the insurance option by calling for teacher layoffs to fund the insurance. His motion died for lack of a second.

"I have to know where this $65,000 is coming from because this is not going to buy more education," Warmbier said.

SUPT. TIMOTHY DYER explained that the insurance package was awarded in compulsory arbitration and the district had no option but to provide it. He added that potentially, the payments could have amounted to $250,000 but a settlement was worked out with the WWEA to reduce the cost to the district.

"Our budget isn't a stagnant one," Dyer explained about the cost of the insurance.

"There are several ways we can make up the money. The first is by hiring teachers on lower salary scale to replace teachers on the higher scale who are leaving."

"Our enrollment may decline and we may not rehire as many teachers as we have and I'm considering a re-consolidation of cabinet positions which might be able to save $20,000."

Trustee Gerry McGrath refuted Warmbier's comments. "To say we're depriving our children of pencils and paper to give teachers this insurance package is a far-fetched statement. We ought to be thanking the people in the cabinet who did the work to get the expenses down."

The Stroller Sports a remedy

Perhaps you haven't given it much thought. But did it ever occur to you what life would be like without our seemingly ever growing interest in sports events?

It could be boring. Few of us realize just how much of an inroad sports have cut in our daily lives.

The Stroller had a fine example of this the other evening when the host at a small gathering asked if his guests minded if he tuned in on the Monday night football game: "so we all could enjoy it."

On another occasion, while attending a meeting of the Board of Education in a neighboring community, one of the members, in all seriousness, asked the chairman if he couldn't speed things up a bit so he could go home to watch the football game.

And if you are a home body, content to remain indoors, it is difficult to turn to the tube for entertainment without running into some sports event.

Just the other day the lady of the house asked, "Isn't there anything on television but football—we've had it most of the day?"

THERE WAS NO ANSWER. But a short time later when a visitor entered the room and asked, "What are you watching?" she answered, "I'm looking at Wide World of Sports. It's from Austria. It's either that or football and I've had my fill of that."

And so it is in most households any time of the year. If one of the pro teams isn't doing well in Detroit there is a high school in the area that is commanding interest. And you can be sure that even when businessmen sit down to lunch the conversation turns to sports before the dining period ends.

Most of the summer conversation centered on the futile efforts of the Tigers who floundered around in last place. But when the World Series came along all eyes and ears were trained on the big games. And more so because Bernie Carbo, the 1965 graduate of Franklin High School in Livonia, was one of the stars.

Then came the football season and it wasn't long until the high schools shared interest with the colleges when Livonia Franklin reached the finals of the first state sponsored football title series.

Proof of the strong hold sports has on the public came when the Lions, moving to their new stadium, drew an average of 75,000, which is more than they ever drew in Tiger Stadium.

The big point, though, is the increased interest at the University of Michigan where the average attendance has passed 97,000—the highest in the nation.

IT IS THESE FIGURES, plus the emotional peak of the mothers and dads along with the students in the high school games that make the present generation more conscious than ever of the big part sports plays in our lives and helps to shake off the doom and gloom of the spiraling economy.

But it was always thus. The Stroller well remembers the days before the big stadia and the prevalent use of automobiles when sports rivalries between small towns was something to behold.

Down home in the Dutch country, most all shops closed and places of business kept their doors shut when Catsauqua faced Northampton in the annual series of home-bred ballplayers.

The Stroller's good friend, Frank Henderson, recalls that the same thing happened when Plymouth and Northville met in the days when Harry German was the star pitcher. This was in days before the cities of Livonia, Garden City and Westland existed. You can imagine what it would be like if these cities now had their own baseball teams.

And let us not forget that in the darkest days of the depression in the early '30's it was sports that buoyed the spirits of the people when the Tigers won the pennant and Detroit

Reserved bus lane seen on I-96 freeway

By TIM RICHARD

The Jeffries Freeway could have a reserved lane for express buses if a funding bill passes the Michigan legislature.

Marvin Meltzer, a staff member of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, asked a local audience Monday to write area legislators in support of a $27 million tax package that would implement the region's share of a 1990 transportation plan.

Meltzer, director of inter-governmental relations for the seven-county transit authority, spoke at a meeting in the Livonia Senior Citizens Center to about 25 persons.

While Meltzer and two other staff persons talked about the rapid-transit features of the 1990 plan, the questions from the audience—predominantly senior citizens—were mostly about local bus transportation.

THE RESERVED lane, said Meltzer, would represent no capital cost in completion of the I-96 freeway, which will follow the routes of Haggerty and Schoolcraft roads through Novi, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Redford Township and Detroit.

Lou Glazer, another staff member, said, "The one capital cost would be park-and-ride lots"—that is, lots where persons could park their cars while taking the Jeffries Freeway bus into Detroit.

Glazer said the park-and-ride system proved so popular in the San Francisco Bay area, the lots were crowded shortly after the public transit lines were opened.

The Jeffries corridor in the Redford-Livonia-Plymouth area is not scheduled to get a rapid-transit (rail) line until sometime after the year 2000. The 1990 plan calls for a rapid-transit line from downtown Detroit along the Jeffries route as far as Greenfield, where it will turn north to Northland Center in Southfield. Express bus patrons from this area would be able to transfer to the rapid-transit line at Greenfield for their downtown trips.

THE BILL, which would pay for it, provides for raising the motor-vehicle tax an average of $10 each for residents of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

Meltzer said this would pay the region's 10 per cent share of a total $270-million a year program, with the federal government paying 80 per cent and the state 10 per cent.

He called the cost modest in comparison to the smaller metropolitan areas of Cleveland, where residents are paying $38 million a year through a sales tax, and Atlanta, where residents are paying $50 million a year, also through a sales tax.

The Michigan transit bill is in the Senate Taxation Committee, where it faces some opposition. Oakland and Macomb counties are seeking a statewide $7.50-a-vehicle tax to help not only SEMTA's 1990 plan but all county roads in the state.

ONE CITIZEN comment concerned bus service in Livonia. "There's no transportation to St. Mary Hospital. There's a bus on Middle Belt that takes you to Wayne County General Hospital, but how do you get to Middle Belt?"

Glazer's answer: "We're talking about doubling the bus system in the next couple of years."

Another question concerned the fairness of taxing motor-vehicle owners for something that mostly non-owners would use.

Meltzer said the bill calls for raising the tax on autos in the tri-county area by 50 per cent and on commercial vehicles by 25 per cent. He acknowledged that "people who are road-oriented tend to be negative about this type of tax."

Firemen get 'diplomas'

Telephone rate hike requested for this area

There are now more telephones in Plymouth's local calling area—Plymouth, Ann Arbor, Canton, Livonia, Northville, South Lyon, Wayne, Ypsilanti—than there are in more than half the nations of the world.

Ten years ago, there were only about 121,000 phones in Plymouth's calling area. Since 1965, the number of phones in the calling area has increased by more than 60 percent.

Because of growth in telephones, Michigan Bell has asked the state Public Service Commission (PSC) to reclassify the exchange to the next higher rate group, according to Haze Wilson, Michigan Bell's local manager.

Reclassification means residence customers in Plymouth-Canton will pay 40 cents more a month for one-party flat rate service, and 25 cents a month more for those with two-party flat rate or suburban service.

Residence rates for metro or budget service and all business rates will not be affected.

The phone company asked for reclassification because the number of phones in the local calling area has remained above the 200,000 upper limit of the present exchange for the past two years.

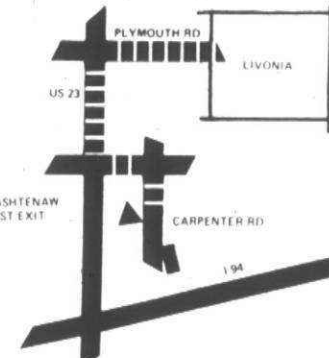

Under PSC regulations, when the number of phones in an exchange's local calling area moves above or below its rate group limits for a period of 24 consecutive months, the exchange is reclassified to the proper rate group.

Rate group classifications are based on the number of main telephones in the local calling area, Wilson explains, because as the number of phones increase so do the opportunities for local calling.

This means Plymouth-Canton residents can call some 214,000 business and residence phones now in their local calling area without dialing the numeral one first.

Michigan Bell has sent written notification to Plymouth-Canton residents affected by the reclassification report. The PSC must approve the company's request and set the effective date for the rate change.

Overpass up and in full use

About 500 students crossing Sheldon Road twice a day to attend Bird Elementary and West Middle School now have a pedestrian overpass to make the crossing without fear of being struck by vehicles.

The pedestrian overpass went up last week and was in full use Monday when both schools opened their doors in the morning.

The official opening ceremonies for the overpass were held Monday morning. Attending were Supt. of Schools John M. Hoben, principals from each school, members of the safety committee of the Plymouth Community School District, and students.

The overpass was purchased and erected with funds from a special safety millage of four-tenths of one mill for one year approved by voters almost two years ago.

THE MAIN reason for the overpass, according to Flossie Tonda of the safety committee, is that traffic is increasing each year due to industry and construction of new houses in the Bird-West Middle attendance area.

Another consideration was plans by the Wayne County Road Commission to widen Sheldon to five lanes in 1977.

Other factors include: reports from crossing guards of at least five motorists running the red lights at this intersection each day; an increase in students crossing Ann Arbor Trail attending Bird School; and because two elementary students were hit going to school, as well as a crossing guard. Fortunately, only one student (in 1974) was seriously injured.

BESIDES THE pedestrian overpass, other safety measures include: Changing the starting and dismissal time of school;

Establishing better walking patterns for students;

Adjusting the timing of the traffic signal at Ann Arbor Trail and Sheldon;

Requesting parents not to drive their children to school which added to the traffic problems; and, Additional training and equipment for crossing guards.

WHEN THE IDEA for the overpass came up, meetings were held between the safety committee, Plymouth Police Department, and the traffic and safety engineer of the Wayne County Road Commission.

It was agreed students would most likely use the overpass if they didn't have to go out of their way, and that constructing one in an L-shape would be cheaper than two separate bridges.

A factor in the location of the overpass also was the fact that Wayne County owned the property northeast of the intersection, eliminating the need for the school district to purchase additional property for footings.

The safety committee thus recommended that the overpass span the north leg of Sheldon Road and extend across the west leg of Ann Arbor Trail with three stairways.

"The safety committee doesn't feel that the pedestrian overpass will solve all the problems at this intersection," says Mrs. Tonda, "as there will be students who feel they are capable of crossing at the street level, or jaywalking in areas not to be seen by school principals."

"We are hoping that the community will help in educating children to use the overpass because separating the child from the automobile is the safest way for children to cross streets."

Federal rules will protect SC women's rights

By CRAIG PIECHURA

A recent federal policy on sex discrimination will have a profound and complex effect on Schoolcraft College. The sex discrimination directive is known as Title 9 and falls under the Educational Amendments Act of 1972. The act became effective July 21, 1975 and all educational institutions have a year to conduct a self-examination of all their policies and practices for possible instances of sex discrimination. Schoolcraft College must keep its findings on file for three years, and that study must be available to the director of the U.S. Office of Civil Rights should he request examination of the college's program. The office of registrar has been designated to carry out the law. Students or employees with a sex discrimination grievance should notify the registrar's office.

MANY PEOPLE are aware that Title 9 demands that sports programs "effectively accommodate" both sexes; but the act also covers financial aid, admissions, all activities and employment. Sports is mentioned frequently in the act, because it is an area found to be seriously inadequate in regard to women and therefore requires affirmative action in facilities and hiring. Russel Bogarin, Schoolcraft's registrar, said the equality provision does not mean there necessarily would be the same number of men's teams as women's teams as long as the needs of both sexes were being met. "We could have eight men's football teams and only one women's team if that was adequate," said Bogarin. But if the men's team eats steak in a fine restaurant and rides to its games in a sleek new bus, while the women's team eats at McDonald's and rides rusty bicycles to its game, that would be an exaggerated example of discrimination, according to Bogarin. Both sexes must have comparable locker rooms, coaching and equipment. TITLE 9 singles out contact sports for special treatment. The law states that when an institution operates a team for members of one sex but operates no such team for members of the opposite sex "members of the excluded sex must be allowed to try out for the team offered unless the sport is a contact one." Pregnancy and childbirth is treated as "any other temporary disability" under the provisions of Title 9. Pregnant women must be granted leaves of absence if employed. "If a pregnant woman voluntarily signed up for phys. ed we couldn't refuse to let her sign up," said Bogarin. "We cannot ask her to obtain the certification of a physician before she can play unless we require everyone with a temporary disability to obtain that certification." Trustee Rosina Raymond said, "We have to treat pregnancy as if a man had a bad hernia."

SCHOOLCRAFT PRESIDENT C. Nelson Grote emphasized that the act does not just guarantee women's rights. "Let's say the federal government wanted to look at our nursing program," said Grote. "They might try to determine if we had an aggressive program to recruit men into the nursing program. They could cite us for discrimination if all the pictures used in our nursing brochures showed women at work. Or if words used in the brochure implied just women, then we would be in violation of Title 9." The self-evaluation at Schoolcraft investigating sex discrimination "will be a very lengthy study," according to Bogarin. "This act applies to clinics, workshops, tournaments and conferences sponsored by this college," said President Grote. "We must make sure that any groups that sponsor activities and workshops here do not discriminate. When the act says activities that takes in a broad sweep, folks." Title 9 states that business and professional honor societies are covered by the law. ONE OF the questions at the board of trustees' study session on Title 9 was whether or not the college could accept grants from organizations such as the Jaycees and Optimists, which refuse to admit women to general membership. The question was posed by Mark McQuesten who belongs to the Jaycees. Bogarin said he would ask for a legal opinion on the matter but was "fairly certain" there would be no problem accepting the grant "as long as the grant didn't result in sex discrimination." Sex-restrictive grants can be accepted from organizations, according to Title 9 provisions, providing the college matches the restrictive grant with equal non-restrictive funds. "If the college can't come up with non-restrictive funds," said Grote, "then we cannot accept the grant." One of the examples of a current sex-restrictive grant would be the five scholarships which go to Ladywood students.

Floyd Kehrl: a man who left his mark

The death of Floyd Kehrl on Nov. 4 brought a mass of recollections about the man whose 47 years in the banking business were headquartered in Plymouth, but encompassed the Lower Peninsula of Michigan.

As his friends reminisce, the picture comes through of a self-made man of many parts. "He was a hard taskmaster," said John Pint, who was closely associated with Kehrl for years. "Yet he was soft-hearted. He gave generously to churches and colleges. He gave people money to get their teeth fixed. He paid funeral bills when a widow could not afford it."

"And he was tireless. He was in his office at 7 a.m. If there was an auction, he'd work through until 11 at night. He opened, and read, every piece of mail that came to the bank. If I opened a letter, I'd have to tell him everything that was in it."

"His lending policies were unique," Pint continued. "We attended farm auctions from Muskegon to Alpena. He made on-the-spot loans to farmers at the auctions. But he also made large industrial loans."

"LARGE LOANS had to be approved by the city loan committee, but Floyd never lost a battle." He got the money.

Pint said Kehrl did not have much sense of humor. There was no point in telling him a joke because he never thought it was funny. But he did recall an incident which revealed Kehrl's ability to see the amusing side of a situation.

They were at an auction sale where household goods were being sold before the farm stock and implements. Old decanters and "a lot of junk" were being disposed of, and a woman paid 25 cents for a Kessler bottle.

"My God," Pint heard Kehrl say, under his breath, "I've thrown away a fortune!"

His fantastic memory was a source of amazement to bank customers. Kehrl would call a person by name, ask him if he still lived at such-and-such an address, and the startled customer would nod in agreement. He hadn't been in the bank for 20 years.

"HE WORKED hard and he played hard," said Pint. "He played golf and he loved the ponies; he had a box at DRC from the time it opened. And he loved to play gin rummy."

Main Street merchants tell of Kehrl's helping them get started in business when they had no collateral. And when they had borrowed all the bank would allow, he loaned them "money out of his own pocket."

The oldtimers knew and loved him because when the old Plymouth bank went under in the '30s, he stayed at his desk and talked to everyone. When things got better, he went to them and saw to it they had the money to start again.

"He liked you or he didn't like you," said Robert Delaney, and it took very little time to find out which side of the fence you were on.

"He seldom looked at a financial statement, but he knew everyone's face, and that's all he needed."

"WHEN I WAS the bank's attorney and got involved representing some long-haired hippie, he'd say, 'Bob, is that right what you're doing?' I'd say, 'Yes, Uncle Floyd, it's my job.'"

Kehrl would say, "O.K. Do a good job on it."

"But," Delaney added, "early in the morning, when he was checking the mail, if he caught me depositing a check from the Credit Union, he wouldn't speak to me for a week."

As Herman Bakhaus said, "There wasn't any better." This, after doing business with Floyd Kehrl since 1930.

OBSERVER &amp; ECCENTRIC

Public favors handgun regulation, sees no 'protection' in firearms

State Sen. Carl Pursell from time to time polls residents of his district (Plymouth, Livonia, Redford Township) about their views on public issues.

His most recent poll results came in to the office last week, and they contained some interesting results on a subject usually treated with more heat than light: gun control.

The item on the questionnaire read: "Proponents of handgun control feel that banning handguns will help eliminate crimes of violence. Those against handgun control claim that criminals will still be able to obtain guns and that citizens would lose a method of defending themselves. Do you favor legislation that would ban the sale and possession of handguns?"

The results were that 56 per cent of the respondents agreed and 44 per cent disagreed.

STATISTICS on this matter of handguns are by now clear.

Of the 19,000 homicides committed in the U.S. in 1973 more than 10,000 involved handguns. While every other industrialized country prohibits private ownership of handguns, one out of every four U.S. households owns a pistol — more than own dishwashers or stereo sets.

National statistics also tend to support Sen. Pursell's poll, showing that the public at large wants some kind of gun regulation by a 77 to 19 per cent margin — a figure that has increased sharply in recent years.

Observation Point

by PHILIP H. POWER

The major objection, of course, is that people fear that handgun regulation would take away from the "good guys" their freedom and capacity to defend themselves against the "bad guys" who would not give up their weapons.

U.S. SEN. Philip A. Hart, in a recent news release, has a good reply to this argument.

National studies, he says, show that in about eight out of 10 handgun killings, it is not the bad man who shoots the good man. Rather it is the momentarily outraged good man who, in passion, uses it instead of his fist, or mistaken good man who thinks the man at the back door is trying to rob him, when in fact it's his neighbor, or it is a home accident.

In the remaining 20 per cent of handgun killings, according to Sen. Hart, where the bad guy is doing the killing, the bad guy usually gets the gun from the good guy. "Unfortunately, those millions of 'honest' handguns provide the reservoir that keeps the criminal arsenal full," concludes the senator.

I HAPPEN to think Sen. Hart and Sen. Pursell (who did not take a position on handgun regulation in his newsletter, but who I suspect favors regulation) are right.

Think of it this way. If Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stempel, whose 13-year-old son was kidnapped in Bloomfield Township last week, had owned a handgun, would its presence have helped prevent their son's abduction? No, because he was picked up at random, as he played in the neighborhood.

Would having a handgun have helped in getting Timothy Stempel back home, safe and sound? No. It was the coolness and courage of the Stempel family, coupled with good advice from the local police and the FBI, which enabled them get their boy back.

Would having a handgun have made the arrest of the kidnapers any quicker or easier? Again, no. The arrest came as a result of thorough and excellent police work.

Our society is sick enough as it is without having to cope with literally hundreds of thousands of handguns kicking around. A much better plan would be to regulate handgun ownership, coupled with swift, long and certain jail sentences to anyone caught committing any crime with a handgun.

Civil disobedience-- for which cause?

The question of civil disobedience when one thinks a law is unjust has always bothered me.

I have always felt that a law is a law and should be obeyed, and if it is a bad law it should be changed through the democratic processes.

When Fred Buesser was president of the Michigan Bar Association, he wrote a very scholarly piece on this subject, and I will steal some of his thoughts to help put the question in a proper perspective.

"If Martin Luther King is correctly understood, civil disobedience is the exercise of the right, under principles of natural or moral law, to disobey any law which an individual's conscience tells him is unjust, provided that he performs his act of disobedience openly and non-violently, and provided that he willingly accepts the penalty for his act."

CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE, so defined, claims a proud lineage: From the Old Testament through the Christian martyrs; from the American Revolution through the civil rights marches in the south.

But before we concede that recent acts of lawlessness and violence — and of interference with police officers in the discharge of their duties — are entitled to be equated with the great heroes of history, let us take a closer look.

Civil disobedience is heady stuff. Its successful exercise generates a sense of power — a power just as corrupting as power lawfully acquired.

The Declaration of Independence cautions against rashness in putting aside established forms of government merely to avoid evils which are "sufferable."

IN COLONIAL times patriots talked of being in a "state of nature." By this they meant a situation in which human beings existed in an environment where there were no laws, no rules, no order.

Today we are not in a state of nature. We live under a democratic society of self-government, based on the concept that the fundamental source of power lies in the people themselves.

This power the people have delegated to their elected representatives. To rebel today is not to rebel against arbitrary potentates or self-appointed tyrants, but against the society we ourselves have set up.

And we must note that it is one thing to disobey a law because it is honestly believed to be unconstitutional (and hence no law at all) and to prove

by HENRY M. HOGAN, JR.

it, and quite another to deliberately violate a law acknowledged to be entirely legal simply to attract public attention to a "cause."

Unless people make themselves heard, the order of society on which we rely — whether for police protection or Social Security payments — will crumble beneath the onslaught of worthy causes (and worse); we will trample ourselves to death in a world where law has lost the respect of the citizens.

If our government is imperfect, it is the best yet devised by the mind of man. Under it laws can be changed and grievances redressed in court. The effectiveness of these remedies is made plain by the dramatic changes in our laws accomplished by statute, petition and court decisions in recent years.

To those who say: "This one cause is more important than the law," the answer must be: "Which cause, world peace, the conquest of space, atomic proliferation, population control, aid to underdeveloped nations, the poverty program, crime and delinquency, civil rights, pollution?"

To those who say: "The wrong is too ancient to await orderly redress," the answer must be: "Anarchy is too high a price to pay."

Judges don't print money

Judges have imposing courtrooms. Judges have gavels. Judges have law books and clerks. Most judges even have wisdom.

But judges don't have printing presses to spit out money, and lacking them, they can't help the State of Michigan, local governments and especially the school districts out of the fiscal jams they're all in.

And yet it appears judges may be asked to do just that because the budget cutting cases may be coming their way.

FORTY SCHOOL districts are asking Attorney General Frank Kelley to rule on whether it's proper for Gov. Milliken and the legislature to cut so-called "categorical aid." Bloomfield Hills, Birmingham, Southfield, South Redford and Troy are involved in that one.

Categorical aid is the money the state gives local districts for certain specialized programs that the state requires. On the surface, it seems incongruous and unfair to tell these districts they absolutely must do certain things and then take away the money they were getting to do it.

But the question is what can an attorney general—whose opinions have the force of law until a court rules otherwise—do about it? Order the state to pay out money it doesn't have?

OTHER SCHOOL districts have a different problem: They were getting general state aid on a formula that went up to 27 mills; thus, if they levied more than 27 mills, they got no extra aid.

Well, that looks fair enough, but when state budget cutting time came along, the cuts were based on total millage, not just the first 27 mills. In other words, the high tax districts got no reward for taxing themselves, but they did get punished when cutting time came.

Wayne-Westland, Redford Union, Livonia and Plymouth are in that bracket—their rates are in the mid-to upper-30s. They, too, are going to the attorney general, and that case could also land in court.

Again, it's fair to inquire: What is an attorney general or judge supposed to do? They can issue all the orders and rulings in the world, but they can't print the money.

MICHIGAN HAS found itself in a bind.

The constitution of 1963 requires balanced budgets, which seemed like a nice idea at the time.

The tax reforms of the mid-'60s gave us an income tax which produced revenues that rose as incomes rose, and that seemed like a nice idea at the time. Unfortunately, with unemployment ranging from 8-14 per cent, those revenues are dropping.

"The only reasonable way out of this crisis is through a tax increase." So says the voice of the 20,000-member Michigan State Employees Association. The Michigan Education Association says the same thing. They would—their jobs are at stake.

Gov. Milliken says "the political climate is not right for a tax increase," and even the MSEA ruefully admits he's probably right.

Sen. Carl Pursell says a new law he sponsored, and which takes effect this week, will require monthly statements of revenues and expenditures, "including estimates of fiscal year-end fund balances." What he's saying is that a faster flow of information might have prevented the kind of $300 million deficit and governmental blood-letting we're now facing.

Attorney general's opinions. Court orders. Monthly statements. Higher taxes. Illegal deficits. It will take more than the judicial wisdom of a Solomon to get us out of this one.

Schools denied new sex ed role

An epidemic of venereal disease. A soaring illegitimacy rate, and not just among the lower orders. The Pill as a household word. The commonness of abortion.

You can read about them in the papers, hear them casually discussed on TV talk shows, learn the gory details from magazines and hear them flippantly discussed in conversation.

What you can't do is teach about them in the public schools. The State Senate saw to that last week as it defeated, 22-12, a bill to lift the prohibitions on certain subjects in sex education classes.

In a way, it's hard to blame those who voted nay. The public—or at least voluble portions of it—sometimes lobbied, sometimes bullied, legislators into voting against it. The senators saw it as a legitimate expression of the will of their constituents.

The "antis" had a good case. We have one of the frankest, most "sophisticated" and best informed societies in the world, but instead of this knowledge eradicating the evils of VD and unwanted pregnancy, just the opposite has occurred.

It would have been good to see the public schools get a crack at educating kids about the evil side of sex, but the Senate, with the advice and consent of concerned mothers, decided that was not to be. The mothers said: "Leave that up to the parents and the churches."

So, parents and churches, get busy. VD is practically epidemic. More illegitimate babies are being born every day. Abortion is commonplace.

Lawmakers back youth agency bill

Western Wayne County lawmakers gave strong support as the Legislature passed a bill to set up a new state juvenile agency and take away much of probate judges' powers over youthful offenders. The bill is on the governor's desk.

The measure creates the Office of Juvenile Justice Systems for a two-year period. Purpose is to supervise and improve rehabilitation efforts. Probate judges would be limited largely to determining the guilt and innocence of juveniles.

IN THE HOUSE, the bill passed 60-45. Backing it were Reps. Thomas Brown (D-Westland), Robert Geake (R-Northville), William Keith (D-Garden City) and John Markes (D-Westland).

Opposed on Nov. 5 were Reps. John Bennett (D-Redford) and Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti).

The Senate Oct. 31 passed it 24-6. Both Sens. William Faust (D-Westland) and Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) backed it.

Oakland County lawmakers generally backed the bill, contending it would upset their strong, local juvenile programs, especially those which used volunteer probation officers.

BROWN SAID, "Probate judges were against it because it takes away some of their powers. But we need more than just judges' efforts." Probate court has jurisdiction over juveniles.

"This might help us solve some behavior matters before they become problems," said Brown.

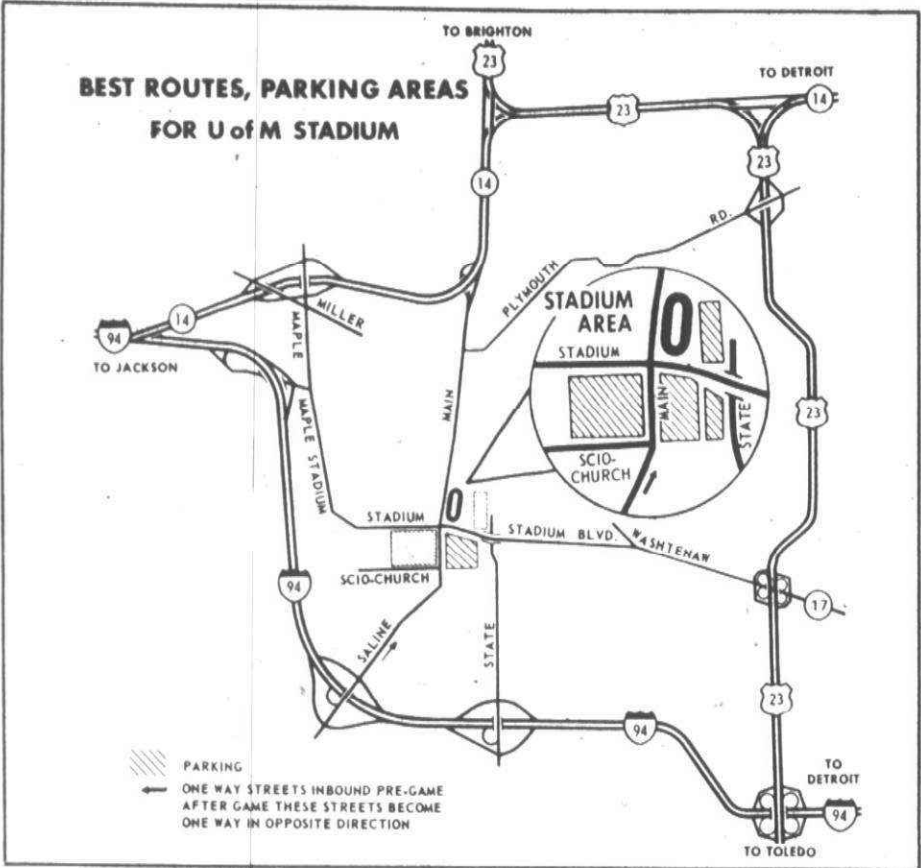

Geake said the new bill "puts responsibility for all juvenile services in one department statewide so that all children everywhere will have the same services."

Geake said the closer vote in the House may have been due in part to confusion between this bill and one that would rewrite the entire juvenile criminal code—the so-called "Jondahl Bill."

BACKERS OF the juvenile services bill cited a 1973 study of state programs which showed juvenile care is provided not only by probate judges but by police, child care facilities, schools, half-way houses, parole services and the Department of Social Services.

The report found services unevenly distributed, varying in quality, sometimes inadequate and often without statewide coordination and planning.

A youngster committing an offense might be sent to a detention home in one county but jailed in another county for the same offense.

Easy way out

Football fans traveling to Ann Arbor for the Nov. 22 Michigan--Ohio State game are advised by the Automobile Club of Michigan to use the Saline Road exit on I-94. The road will be one-way inbound prior to the game and one-way outbound afterwards. Drivers should avoid State Road, the main access to Briarwood Shopping Center. Motorists on the north can take US-23 to M-14 and exit at Maple Road, which runs to U-M Stadium via Stadium Boulevard. An estimated 105,000 persons are expected to attend the game, which should determine the Big 10 championship.

November events of winter begins

Leaves crunching underfoot, frost-tinted nights, touchdown thrills and the first stirrings of that holiday feeling announce that the year has reached November. And the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events suggests a number of excellent ways to enjoy every day of it, according to the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Two annual Michigan "get-togethers" are deer season and the Redcoat Roundup at Grayling, Nov. 14-16. The community buck pole is the main attraction and a traditional event, but to be eligible for prizes hunters must have their 1975 Redcoat Roundup button.

THE SEASON of swift agility on ice opens this month with the Gold Cup Indoor Short Track Speed Skating Meet at Wyandotte, Nov. 29, and the Wolverine Indoor Short Track Speed Skating Meet at Wolverine, Nov. 30.

Precision, grace and beauty on silver blades describes the pleasant experience of the '75-'76 version of Holiday on Ice, Nov. 23-25, in Walker Arena, Muskegon.

Delightful reminders that Christmas is close at hand take place Nov. 29. One is the Christmas Parade in Oscoda, and the other is the opening of Fantasyland in Kennedy Memorial Center, Lincoln Park. Fantasyland is an annual, magical holiday adventure for all ages, complete with elves and pixies, candy and toy stores; and it can all be enjoyed through Dec. 24.

On the arts, crafts and antiques front, there's the Hobby Show in the Light Guard Armory, Detroit, Nov. 7-9 which will offer hundreds of ideas for doing during leisure hours. Materials for starting your own hobby, demonstrations and creative finished products for sale will all be part of the show.

The sixth annual International Bazaar and American Craft Show is scheduled Nov. 12-16 at the Meridian Mall, Okemos, and will feature original crafts, costumes, foods and entertainment from America and the countries of the world. Antiques and select collectables from New England, the East and Midwest will be at the heart of the Antiques Market, Nov. 16, in Ann Arbor.

MORE ANTIQUES and dealers from some 30 different states will offer their treasures for browsing and buying at the annual Detroit Christmas Antique Show, Nov. 19-23, in the Light Guard Armory on Eight Mile Road.

If entertainment is your "thing," the November program has some "goodies." "Finian's Rainbow" will be presented by the Northland Players in the High School Little Theatre, Cheboygan, Nov. 7-9 and 14-15. The Henry Ford Museum Theatre will offer "Music in Colonial Times, 1740-1780," Nov. 16, in their Historical Concert Series.

Also on Nov. 16, the ageless and incomparable comedienne, Patsy Kelly, brings the Broadway musical, "Irene" to the stage of Whiting Auditorium in Flint. For the delight of every age group, Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti will present "Ichabod! The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," Nov. 21-23; and "Christmas Story"—the story of how Christmas came into being through the stars—can be seen at Longway Planetarium, Flint, Nov. 28-Dec. 21.

There's a great season going for

Workshop set on new resumes

Schoolcraft College will conduct a workshop on Nov. 20 for persons interested in developing creative, yet non-traditional resumes as job applicants.

Free and open to the general public, the workshop is set for 8 p.m. in Room B-210 in the Liberal Arts Building on the campus at 1800 Haggerty, Livonia.

Sponsored by the Women's Resource Center, the workshop will be facilitated by Barbara Bargo. She will help participants build resumes based on a self-assessment of personal qualities and skills, including those developed through life experiences, volunteer work, homemaking and non-traditional education.

A portion of the workshop will be a "how to" session on persuading prospective employers of one's capabilities and potential for job placement and advancement.

THE 8 DANGER SIGNS THAT INDICATE SPINAL PRESSURES AND TENSIONS ON VITAL NERVES

The highways and streets we drive along have many warning signs we immediately recognize, telling us well in advance that potential danger lies ahead. The human body has a similar set of signals. These critical symptoms are often the forerunners of more serious diseases... diseases that can be averted if the eight danger signs are heeded in time.

A face lift gives a psychological lift, too

By MARGARET MILLER

Who goes to the plastic surgeon? Younger and younger women, reports Dr. Richard E. Straith, who talked in the Northville Town Hall series about his work in that field.

But also, he said, women farther along in years, who a not so long ago might have been considered past interest in a facelift.

Men, too, reported Dr. Straith, especially the ones whose job involves meeting the public and the ones who feel the need to look good.

And, of course, accident victims and children with birth defects—the latter group as young as possible.

DR. STRAITH, who is following in the work of his father, Dr. Claire L. Straith, who founded the Straith Memorial Hospital now located in Southfield, showed before and after slides of many patients and answered varied questions in his lecture and celebrity luncheon appearance in the Plymouth Hilton.

The pictures were received with both appreciation and nervous laughter; the questions revealed considerable interest in a topic that is coming more and more into the area of frank discussion.

As a living answer to some questions, Dr. Straith presented to his audience Mrs. John H. Ganschow of Southfield, who had been his patient twice.

"The greatest thing is being able to look in the mirror and not shudder," Mrs. Ganschow told the women.

"I had my second facelift just a few months ago," she said. "For me, it was a matter of a little inconvenience and discomfort, but not really pain."

"I've never made any secret of the matter, and I know I'd go back a third time if later I were to feel it necessary. This time, though, I did make a point of going to my bank and making sure someone there knew me, so that I wouldn't have trouble when returning with a new face."

Asked her age, the smooth-complected Vera Ganschow said she is "older than I look."

THE DESCRIPTIONS of varied kinds of plastic surgery brought mixed reactions from the women present.

Talking it over at the luncheon, Gerry Willey of Livonia, and Diane Coleman and Tina Mazzoni of Garden City agreed they wouldn't hesitate to use Dr. Straith's service—"and not just for face but for the other kinds of repair work," as Mrs. Coleman put it. Others at their table thought the visits would not be made in the foreseeable future.

Livonian Frances Hensley said she was most interested in Dr. Straith's pictures of the accident victims and children with birth defects, but added:

"I think I'll keep my own face. My husband seems to like it." Her companion, Lucille Smith of Plymouth, agreed—"even this wattle; I've had it so many years."

"I think it's fine for a woman who really wants it," said former Plymouth resident Mrs. Norman Atchinson, "but I wouldn't want to do it."

And Margaret Hunter worried about what she felt was Dr. Straith's implication that "all women my age are so vain."

"I don't think that's true," she added.

DR. STRAITH emphasized that he left the decision-making strictly to his client.

"I explain the procedure," he said, "and tell people the costs and the risks, and they make the decision."

"The surgery itself is not hard on a patient," he said, "and I have had several who had some heart problems. One told me she didn't care if she died on the table—she wanted to look better."

Younger women coming to him worried him some, he said, "because there's more risk if you start with an essentially pretty face and want to improve it."

"I tried to talk one fairly young woman out of having work done, but she kept coming back and insisting,

And she was right; the change really seemed to give her a psychological lift."

A MALE PATIENT, Dr. Straith said, came back some time after his surgery to tell him he'd just been made vice president of his company.

"He felt he needed to look good in order to have the self-confidence to present his ideas," the speaker said.

He said he'd also heard from young women who felt their lives changed greatly after nose jobs. "The male image of acceptable female beauty seems to include a delicate nose," he added. "Of course we don't guarantee anything..."

Some areas, Dr. Straith said, are less adaptable to plastic surgery than others. A peel treatment, involving a few days in bandages and a pink face for a couple of months" will help skin coarsened by exposure to the sun, but not acne-pocked skin, he pointed out.

Red birth marks are covered by the addition of pigmentation, but this has to be repeated every few years, he added. With problems like varicose veins "you have to be sure that the treatment doesn't create a worse problem."

PRICES HE QUOTED for the Straith hospital "begin at $1,200 for a face lift—mine begin at $1,900." A face peel is about $750, he said.

Hospitalization plans cover surgery there only if there's a functional rather than cosmetic reason, he added, citing as examples nose surgery to open nasal passages and correction of drooping eyelids.

But in many cases the hospital costs are paid, Dr. Straith added.

The speaker said sun-worshipping causes many problems in skin aging, and added that many of the problems corrected through plastic surgery are hereditary.

When someone asked what a young woman could do to stay out of his office in the future, his answer was quick.

"Stay out of the sun," he said, "and be very careful about how you choose your grandparents."

'It's been rewarding'

They're young and busy and Girl Scout Leaders

Girl Scout leaders are getting younger everyday. Busier too.

Two examples of the new breed of young and busy Scout leaders are Karen DeLair of Garden City and Kathy Paulson of Westland.

They bear out statistics provided by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council that of the 120 new Scouting volunteers recruited by the council, a majority are young working adults.

Looking at the schedules of these women, it is hard to see where they could possibly fit in a troop of active Scouts.

Miss DeLair works as a bookkeeper and also attends Wayne State University four nights a week, majoring in accounting. On the fifth night she bikes herself over to Edison Elementary School in Westland where she formulates plans for bike hiking, horseback riding or other activities with the 20 members of Junior Scout Troop 109.

Their age is 10-12.

Mrs. Paulson, expecting her first child, goes to work at 5 a.m. in the Plymouth Post Office, and recently fractured her leg in a fall.

Nonetheless she turns up once a week to move along the ecology program which Brownie Troop 28 is working on in Marshall Elementary School, Livonia.

"I'VE HAD a lot of enjoyment out of it," says Miss DeLair. "It's been rewarding. That's why I do it."

As a youngster she had never joined a troop. However, she swam in Amateur Athletic Union meets and became a life guard and water safety instructor.

"My cousin was a Scout member and asked me if I would go on an outing to Camp Linden to help with water activities," she recalls. "While I was there the leader told me that she was quitting. She asked me if I would consider taking over the troop."

"Before I left I was the new leader. I said I'd do it for a year. Now I'm in my second year."

Miss DeLair has found no difficulty finding friends to give her assistance during special troop ventures.

"I've almost had to set up a waiting list for my single friends who want to go on troop excursions and help with projects," she reports. "They think it's a lot of fun, and it is."

NINETEEN-YEAR-OLD Kathy Paulson's interest in Girl Scouting began many years ago when she joined a troop in fifth grade. She continued through Cadette Scouts and was an active member of the organization for four years.

Her current troop project is sprucing up Livonia in honor of Christmas.

"Livonia allows each troop to decorate a tree," she says. "We're going to string popcorn and cranberries and then put them on our tree so the birds will have something to eat."

Mrs. Paulson is strong on environmental programs for her Brownies.

"A project likes this teaches the girls to be aware of animals, and the fact they may have difficulty finding food in December," she observes.

"I emphasize the use of natural things. This spring we will collect rocks and make paints. Certain rocks produce a dye to make paint. Then we'll paint other rocks and make paper weights."

"I think this will be a valuable lesson for them, and teach them not to be wasteful."

THE GIRL SCOUTS of Metropolitan Detroit suggest that any interested adult who enjoys working with young people can become a Girl Scout leader, an assistant leader or a consultant.

Free training in leadership and other skills is provided by the Scouts. For further information, contact the organization at 153 E. Elizabeth, Detroit.

Yule antiques to be shown

A Christmas antique show is scheduled in Botsford Inn, Grand River and Eight Mile in Farmington, on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 29 and 30, from 12 noon to 10 p.m. both days.

Seasonal displays will include old Christmas ornaments, musical instruments, toys and games.

Participating dealers also will have hand-painted china, art glass, kitchen items, oak furniture and victorian pieces. A special feature will be a collection of majolica, a valuable Renaissance Italian pottery.

Teen driving class planned

A teen driver education class will meet for five weeks starting Monday, Dec. 1 in the Western Wayne County YWCA, 26279 Michigan, Inkster.

Classes will take place Monday,

Tuesday and Wednesday from 5-7 p.m. They are taught by college trained instructors. Students will have 30 hours of classroom instruction and six hours behind the wheel.

It's 50 years for Burdens

Seventy-five friends and relatives from Plymouth, Westland and South Lyon and as far away as Arkansas and Ohio helped Mr. and Mrs. Lester Burden of Plymouth celebrate their 50th anniversary.

Marking the anniversary of their wedding vows, spoken Oct. 25, 1925, in Detroit before Judge L. Eugene Sharp, was an open house in their home on Morgan Street.

Mr. Burden worked for Daisy Air Rifle in Plymouth and later in Arkansas for 48 years before retiring in 1971.

Borders-Hendzell

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Borders of Westland announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Thomas Hendzell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hendzell of Plymouth. The bride-elect is a 1973 graduate of John Glenn High School and a student at Grace Hospital School of Nursing in Detroit. Her fiancé is a University of Michigan graduate and employed by Detroit Band & Trust. A May 15 wedding is planned.

Richards-Bunting

William and Lenora Richards of Bonnydale Street, Livonia, announce the engagement of their daughter, Nancy Louise, to Lawrence J. Bunting of Dearborn, son of Harold and Clara Bunting of Ottawa Lake, Mich. The bride-elect is a 1975 honors graduate of Michigan State University, where she earned a degree in Spanish, was captain of the MSU ski team and belonged to Sigma Delta Pi, an honor fraternity. She is employed by Metro-Detroit Jobs for Progress, Inc., and the Mountain Ski Shop. Her fiancé, a senior in the Wayne State University law school and a member of the staff of the Wayne State Law Review, is employed by the Michigan Court of Appeals. They plan to be married Dec. 20 in St. Andrew Episcopal Church of Livonia.

Numismatists set state meet

The Michigan State Numismatic Society's 20th anniversary annual fall convention will be held on Nov. 28-30, in the Sheraton Cadillac Hotel, Detroit, Michigan, and will be hosted by the Metro Detroit Coin Clubs, Dearborn, Detroit, Northwest and Warren.

The three-day event will include special ladies' events and a program for juniors.

In conjunction with the convention will be meetings and programs of the early American coppers, the paper money collectors of Michigan, The International Order of Wooden Money and The Michigan Token and Medal Society.

Featured in the lobby a U.S. post office. The Michigan State Numismatic Society has been granted a special show cancellation and souvenir first day covers will be available to mail from the premises.

Open Mon-Sat. 10:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.

Friday, Nov. 21—The Christmas fair at St. John Episcopal Church, 574 S. Sheldon, Plymouth, will have booths of candles, needlepoint, baked goods, knitted and crocheted items, Christmas decorations and tree ornaments, white elephants, sockcraft animals and used books.

Lunch and dinner also will be served in connection with the fair.

Friday, Nov. 21—The Plymouth Symphony League Bazaar will run from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Plymouth Community Credit Union, on Harvey Street. On sale will be baked goods, greens, macrame hangings, Christmas items, toys and home accessories.

Friday, Nov. 21—St. Mark Presbyterian Church, 26701 Joy, Dearborn Heights, will hold its Christmas bazaar from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., with handcrafted items, decorations, baked goods, attic treasures, gifts and a fish pond for children. Lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., and there will be a dinner which requires prior reservations.

BAZAARS

Saturday, Nov. 22—St. Dunstan Altar Society will hold a holiday craft fair in the church hall, 1515 Belton, Garden City, from 12 noon to 7 p.m.

More than 20 tables of handmade items from ceramics to oil paintings will be offered, along with a country kitchen with homemade goodies.

Saturday, Nov. 22—The Rebekah Lodge of Plymouth will have a Christmas bazaar from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 22 at 344 Elizabeth Street, Plymouth, just off Ann Arbor Trail. There will be afghans, quilts, toys, fresh baked goods, plants and a white elephant sale. Coffee will be provided.

Saturday, Nov. 22—St. Kevin Catholic Church, Henry Ruff and Parkwood, Inkster, will be the scene of a Santa's Workshop display from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Besides the handmade art and craft items and baked goods and refreshments, there will be dealers' displays of Christmas merchandise. A special "make-it-and-take-it" department will give visitors a chance to put together a craft item and take it home, and there will be a Santa Claus present for pictures with the small children.

Saturday, Nov. 22—Craft items, white elephants and baked goods will be featured in a sale sponsored by Girl Scout Cadette Troop 317 in St. John Lutheran Church, Gill Road south of Grand River, Farmington. The sale, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., is raising money for a projected trip to Washington.

Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 22 and 23—The women's club of St. Agatha Catholic Church, 19650 Beech-Daly, Redford Township, will present its annual Christmas boutique in the gymnasium of the school.

The hours will be 6 to 9 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday, and the sale will feature handmade articles, novelties, candles, wreaths and religious items. Also planned are a snack bar and bakery booth.

Bike-a-thon set Nov. 22

How the Fall Festival got its start

(Part I)

"History," some wag has written, "is something that never happened, written by a man who wasn't there."

Admittedly, the writer wasn't present when most of the events recorded in the history of Plymouth took place. I was there, however, from the inception of what apparently has become a fixture in the social and economic life of Plymouth—the Fall Festival—and I can assure you that it did happen.

THE PLYMOUTH FALL Festival grew out of a community family picnic, sponsored almost 20 years ago by the Plymouth Rotary Club.

The idea for the picnic was suggested by Don Lightfoot, a member of the club's youth activities committee. Don proposed that Rotary sponsor a chicken barbecue to raise funds to buy equipment for a playground at the end of Wing Street.

About 500 people attended the event held at the playground on May 20, 1956. During the outing, president-elect Don Sutherland, of the rotary Club, presented the playground equipment, and Mayor Russell Daane accepted it for the city. On May 24, the city commission, by resolution, A second picnic was held and Don Lightfoot for suggesting the idea.

A second picnic was held June 9, 1975, at the Hamilton Street Playground. As in the preceding and succeeding years, Rotarians prepared and served the 500 chickens used that year. The price of the meal, consisting of barbecued chicken, corn-on-the-cob, potato chips and coffee was $2 for adults, and $1.25 for children. The profit, $505, was again spent for playground equipment.

In 1958, the site for Rotary's "Third Annual Plymouth Community Chicken Barbecue," held Sept. 18, was the athletic field of Plymouth High School (now Central Middle School). Tickets that year were reduced to $1.50 for adults and $1 for children. The purpose was to raise money for Rotary's Youth Benefit and Community Service Fund "and to extend a welcome to our neighbors to visit Plymouth."

FROM THESE three barbecues, held on neighborhood playgrounds, grew the first Fall Festival, which took place in the fall of 1960.

In that year, the scope of the outing was broadened to include more than a dinner, Kellogg Park was first used as the site, and the term "Fall Festival" was first applied to the event. I believe it was Harold Guenther who proposed the name.

I was president of Plymouth Rotary

The first Fall Festival held in Kellogg Park in 1960 grew out of Plymouth Rotary Club chicken barbecues which began in 1956. This 1960 photo shows Rotarians in the park ready to hoist a promotional banner.

Club that year. I wanted to make sure the affair was chaired by a man who had the ability to organize and administer what appeared to be developing into a major happening.

Now that it was to be more than a barbecue, we had to be sure that all of the elements were coordinated. I asked around and was told that Frank Arlen, a past president of the Rotary Club and a local industrialist, was the man for the job, if he would take it.

I had lunch with Frank and urged him to be the general chairman. He said he would consider the responsibility only if he had a strong committee to back him up. I assured him that I would appoint the club's entire board of directors as his committee. He agreed to take the job on those terms.

With Frank Arlen as general chairman, the committee leaders for the first Fall Festival were Rotary board members: Earl West, in charge of site preparations and facilities; Harold Guenther, host committee; Robert Beyer, serving committee; Perry Richwine, soft drinks, dessert and coffee; Robert Maurer; tickets; and Carl Caplin, chef's committee. I was chairman of the publicity committee.

We went to unusual lengths to make sure the 1960 event would be successful. Frank had heard that Manchester, Mich., had been staging a large and successful barbecue for many years. He and I drove to Manchester one sunny afternoon, while the barbecue was on, with the ideal of learning what we could from their experiences. We watched the Mancunians perform, and talked to Bill Baker, president of the Manchester Jaycees, and Luther Klager of the Optimist Club, both of whom were very cooperative. Frank, who knew what he was looking for, came away full of ideas for improving our barbecue techniques in Plymouth.

ARLEN, who was very thorough, went at the job of chairing the first Fall Festival like a time-study man and efficiency expert.

He not only applied some of the ideas we had picked up at Manchester, he introduced some thoughts of his own. He "automated" our serving line and improved our cooking techniques at the charcoal pits. He checked and double-checked things that had to be done so many times that I thought the committee chairmen would revolt. They didn't, and the first Fall Festival in Plymouth was a huge success.

Much of the credit was due to Frank Arlen, to the committee heads, and to the individual members of the club who worked twice as hard as they ever did in their vocations.

Part of the success was also attributable to the comprehensive publicity campaign we put together. We wrote to other Rotary clubs inviting them to attend. We made radio and TV contacts, encouraged local merchants to refer to the event in their ads, had window posters placed in stores, issued newspaper releases, made house-to-house distribution of circulars, and posted directional signs at appropriate locations. The club's auxiliary, the Rotary Anns, helped by making telephone calls reminding people of the big day.

I got Kenny Williams, paint foreman at Evans Products Company, to hand letter a six-foot banner which we strung across Main Street at Mill. Kenny also silk-screened some hard-board signs which Dan Olson and I posted at entrances to the city.

The Plymouth Mail gave us excellent advance publicity. We announced that prizes, scrounged from local industrialists, would be awarded on the afternoon of the event at a drawing open to all who bought barbecue tickets.

(Part II will complete the story of the origin of the Plymouth Fall Festival.)

Truckers tell of contributions to Plymouth

Plymouth received $51,072 from the trucking industry during fiscal year 1974, according to a release from the Michigan Trucking Association.

The association reports Plymouth received $169,112 in rebates from state highway tax collections. Of this amount, the association estimates $51,072—30.2 per cent—was contributed in highway taxes from the trucking industry.

Wayne County benefitted from a total of $42 million paid in truck taxes, the group reports, of which $21 million was distributed to local governments.

In its annual industry fact book, the association reports that Michigan trucking: employs some 316,200—one of 10 persons employed in the state; has an annual payroll of more than $3.4 billion; pays more than $269 million in state and federal highway-user taxes each year—more than $5.1 million a week; and spent $640 million in 1973 to purchase 130,182 new trucks.

Truck registrations in Michigan have grown from less than 72 million in 1923 to more than 750 million in 1973. Of the '73 truck registrations, 48 per cent are for personal use, 11 per cent for utilities and services; 14 per cent for agriculture; nine per cent for construction; 8.5 per cent for wholesale and retail; four per cent for hire; and three per cent for manufacturing. About three-fourths of the trucks registered in '73 were pickups, panel variety.

Michigan ranks seventh in the nation in truck registrations and the U.S. has 37 per cent of the world's total.

In 1973 the average wage in the for-hire trucking industry was $16,024 compared to the average wage of all industries of $10,763.

Of the highway-user taxes paid in Michigan, the following amount is paid by these types of vehicles: passenger car, $130.90 total; van truck, $744; tractor semitrailer, $1,910; and twin trailer, $3,220.

CHURCH BULLETIN

PLYMOUTH WESLEYAN CHURCH, 42290 Five Mile, plans an evangelistic series with Commissioner J. Clyde Cox of the Salvation Army from Thursday, Nov. 20, through Sunday, Nov. 23.

The first meeting will follow a 6:30 p.m. thanksgiving dinner at the church, and the guest evangelist will speak each evening on the theme, "Growing with Christ."

Commissioner Cox was for several years divisional commander of the Salvation Army in eastern Michigan, and he now has responsibilities for SA work in the central states, including Michigan.

He is the father of Howard Cox, who is coming from Arlington, Ill., to serve as song evangelist for the series of meetings, and the Rev. David L. Cox, pastor of the local church.

ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, 27475 Five Mile, Livonia, will present a dramatic reenactment of the first Thanksgiving in its worship services at 9:30 and 11 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 23.

Members of the music and drama departments have planned the service, which will be climaxed by a special presentation of canned foods to be taken to the Cass Corridor Project for the elderly in inner-city Detroit.

The service also will mark the first use of a new Thanksgiving banner designed and made by the church's sewing guild.

THE LIVONIA CHRISTIAN CHURCH (Disciples of Christ), 36075 Seven Mile, Livonia, will have its second annual Thanksgiving service Wednesday, Nov. 26, at 7:30 p.m.

Worship will be led by the Rev. William H. Hass, pastor. The Rev. Jerry Fraser, associate pastor of St. Edith Catholic Church of Livonia, will preach the sermon. There will be music by the chancel choir and the Saints and Singers, a group of youngsters from third grade up.

The offering will be put in a special fund to meet emergencies in the community.

WARD UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, Farmington Road at Six Mile, Livonia, will present Bruce Hanks, a descendant and look-alike of Abraham Lincoln, in a bicentennial program Sunday, Nov. 23 at 7 p.m.

Hanks has traveled around the country with his program, which involves a first-person account of Lincoln's career, a dramatic recitation of the Gettysburg address and a slide presentation depicting this nation's history. He wears authentic dress for his appearance. The public is invited to the free program.

LIVONIA WESLEYAN CHURCH, 14560 Merriman, will have a missionary service Sunday, Nov. 23, at 7 p.m., with Burrell W. Sayer, area representative for Wesleyan Indian Missions, as speaker.

With slide illustrations, he will report Wesleyan work in 12 reservations in South Dakota and Arizona, including mission stations, radio broadcasting and a school.

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF PLYMOUTH, 701 Church, will present its organist, Dorothy Crawford, in a recital in the church sanctuary Sunday, Nov. 23, at 4 p.m.

Mrs. Crawford, educated at the University of Illinois, Boston University and the New England Conservatory of Music, came here in June, 1975, after serving as director of music in a church in Bedford, Mass.

BRUCE HANKS
Performing at Ward

Her program will include works by Bach, Robert Hebble and Widor. Assisting her will be Mrs. William Slade, soprano, who has been soloist often at the local church, singing works of Handel, Beck and Guion. Coffee will be served in the church parlor following the music.

PLYMOUTH CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE, 41550 E. Ann Arbor Trail, will present Paul McNutt, baritone, in a patriotic concert Sunday, Nov. 23, at 6 p.m.

McNutt has received a Freedom Foundation for the collection of national music that he has put together and presented 250 times in cities all over the United States. A graduate of Cornish Conservatory in Seattle, McNutt fought in World War II and the Korean War and has been a revival singer for 15 years.

AUGSBURG LUTHERAN CHURCH, 24801 West Chicago, Redford Township, will present Mary Morgan and Paul Pinterpi in a recital of music for two harps Sunday, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p.m.

Both are students of Nadia Marks in Plymouth, and they will be assisted by Todd Gresick, organist, and Maureen Born, soprano. The admission charge is $1, and a reception will be held after the concert.

ST. ANDREW EPISCOPAL CHURCH, will welcome Margaret Hess to the meeting of its Episcopal Church Women Tuesday, Nov. 25, at 12 noon. Mrs. Hess will speak on "The Holy Land through Scripture and Slides" following a luncheon. Reservations for the luncheon, costing $1.50, should be made by Nov. 21 by calling Mrs. George Osborne, 34625 Grove, Livonia. Babysitting will be available at a cost of 25 cents per child.

MT. HOPE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH, 30330 Schoolcraft, Livonia, will sponsor a card party Saturday, Nov. 22, from 8 to 11 p.m. The tickets, priced at $1.75, include refreshments and prizes, and the church's board of trustees invites all in the area to make up a table or come alone and meet new friends.

ST. AGATHA CATHOLIC CHURCH, 19650 Beech-Daly, will have a Christmas bazaar sponsored by its women's club Saturday, Nov. 22, from 6 to 9 p.m., and Sunday, Nov. 23, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

St. Elizabeth to institute Rev. Morrell

St. Elizabeth Episcopal Church of Redford Township will institute the Rev. Roy L. Morrell as its first rector with services Sunday, Nov. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

A parish supper, Evensong and burning of the mortgage on the church and rectory on West Chicago will precede the ceremony in which the clergyman who has served as vicar for 18 years will become rector.

The Right Rev. Archie H. Crowley, former Suffragan Bishop of Michigan, will be guest preacher for the institution services.

St. Elizabeth was organized as a mission of St. Martha Episcopal Church in Detroit, and its first service was held in the Arthur Vandenberg school Nov. 25, 1956.

Property at the site between Beech-Daly and Inkster was purchased the following spring, and ground was broken in April of 1960. The first service in the new church was held Christmas Eve, 1960.

A debt retirement drive was launched in July of 1960, and the final payment was made in July of this year.

The church was received as a parish by the Episcopal Diocese of Michigan on Oct. 25.

The burning of the mortgage will take place Sunday in St. Martha church, with members of both congregations participating.

The celebration in the Redford church will begin at 4:30 p.m. with the parish supper. Evensong, to be sung by the Rev. Edwin A. Griswold, St. Martha rector, will follow the meal, and then Rev. Morrell will be instituted into office by the Venerable Irving H. Mayson, Archdeacon of Michigan, assisted by the Very Rev. James W. Francis, dean of the west-side convocation.

Coffee will be served following the institution to welcome former members, guests and visitors.

Child care classes receive new look

Planning the curriculum for courses in child care are (from left) Chris Johnston and Sister Mary Bridget, seated. Behind them (from left) are Betsy Steiner, Patricia Arent, Barbara Smith and Mary Beth Koss.

Students who take child development courses in high school may find a few new wrinkles added in the future as a result of a project underway at Madonna College, Livonia.

Eight area teachers are currently redesigning curriculum for these courses with the help of consultants and Sister Mary Bridget, chairperson of the department of home economics and family life at Madonna.

Five workshops in October, November and December will deal with curriculum planning and content selection as well as evaluation of present instructional programs in child development.

During the second semester, the teachers will use the model units for instruction in their home high schools. The curriculum and how it works will then be evaluated by the project director and consultants.

Teachers who are participating in the project are Patricia Arent of Bentley High School and Betsy Steiner of Churchill High School, both in Livonia. Others are Chris Johnston and Mary Beth Koss of Plymouth-Canton High School, Joanne Long of John Glenn High School of Westland, Easter James and Phyllis Martin of Inkster High School and Ann Murray of Wayne Memorial High School in Wayne.

Instructors are Barbara McDonald of Wayne State University, Susan Loss of Marygrove College, Thelma Valenstein of Mercy College and Barbara Smith of Madonna College.

Program consultants are Dr. Ruby Meis of Eastern Michigan University and Dr. Charlotte Neuhauser of Madonna College.

Gin rummy benefit set

The second annual American Cancer Society Bill Gadsby Gin Rummy Tournament will be run Friday, Nov.

21 from 6:30 p.m. to 2 a.m. in the Troy Hilton Inn, 1455 Stevenson, at the corner of Maple in Troy.

Gymnastics on horseback planned

A free mounted gymnastics demonstration (voltage) will be given Saturday, Nov. 29 at 1 p.m. at Tiergarten Farms, South Lyon.

This new sport utilizes the bareback horse and involves exercises demonstrating agility, grace and power on the part of both horse and rider.

Groups of young people interested in the demonstration are invited. Those wishing to attend should call the farm by Nov. 22.

All entries must be made by Nov. 18, and the fee is $150 for each team. Call the American Cancer Society office, 29500 Southfield Road, Southfield, to register. A total of $8,600 in prize money will be distributed.

The entry fee includes buffet dinner and two drinks, and a cash bar will be open.

The continuous tournament play will begin promptly at 6:30 p.m., so players are asked to arrive an hour earlier.

Guild seeks director

The Plymouth Theatre Guild is accepting applications for a producer and a director of its bicentennial production, "Pursuit of Happiness," to be performed in March. Written applications should be sent to Plymouth Theatre Guild, PO Box 451, Plymouth, 48170.

Madonna sets family brunch

A family brunch to raise funds for a deaf student tuition grant will be served Sunday, Nov. 23 in the residence hall of Madonna College, 36600 Schoolcraft, Livonia.

The menu will include several breakfast choices, and tickets for all you can eat are $3 for adults and 1.75 for children under 10.

Serving will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Program views troubles

The Michigan Inter-Professional Association on Marriage, Divorce and the Family is sponsoring a program entitled Troubled Youth Thursday, Nov. 20, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Northland Land Inn in the Southfield Rooms.

The content of the program will examine the social, psychological and physiological components of involvement with society and the problems encountered by young people 16 to 21. It will focus on how related disciplines can work together to assist youth in resolving their various anti-social behavior.

The subject will include, but will not be limited to, a consideration of youth involvement with alcohol, drugs and promiscuity. Understanding our youth is perhaps our biggest problem and greatest challenge. This program will help to evaluate where we stand in relation to youth.

The speaker will be Derek Miller, M.D., associate chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of Michigan Medical Center and Director of the Adolescents Center at the University.

Dr. LaMaurice Gardner, professor at Wayne State University in the department of psychology will be the discussant. Jack Bradford, a certified marriage counselor, will be the moderator. The charge is $2, or $1 for students.

To make reservations, call the association office, 1601 Ford Building, Detroit.

Area bands join in Thanksgiving Parade

Bandsmen from Bloomfield Hills, Redford Township and Franklin will join Hudson's 49th annual Thanksgiving Day Parade as it starts off on the road to '76 on this all-American holiday. The spectacular line-up includes 18 floats, 12 bands and more than 2,000 marchers.

Saluting the nation's approaching bicentennial in this year's gala event will be several new floats, including "Uncle Sam Spans the Centuries" and the "Spirit of '76" train.

Uncle Sam pilots an antiquated bi-plane through the clouds, towing three enormous baskets of passengers from the past and the present. Adding to the festivities will be a returning favorite, "The First Thanksgiving."

The Bloomfield Hills-Andover High Band will step out under the direction of Craig Strain, while Redford-Thurston's marchers will sound off under the baton of T.H. Smith. Franklin's Village Band will be led by Dr. Conrad Lamb.

Joining these local bandsmen will be bands from Utica, Hazel Park, Gibraltar, Detroit, Ferndale, Southgate, Northbrook, Ill., and Canfield and Groveport, Ohio.

More than a half million people are expected to line Detroit's Woodward Avenue on Nov. 27 to see the parade. Millions more across the country will watch live television coverage on the CBS Network (WJBK-TV, Channel 2, locally). Two television personalities from the CBS family of stars will describe the action for viewers, beginning at 10:25 a.m.

Total television coverage in the Detroit metropolitan area will feature Sonny Elliot on WWJ-TV, Channel 4, starting at 10 a.m. Commemorating the event from Hudson's downtown store marquee for those attending will be master of ceremonies Dick Purtan of WXYZ radio.

The parade begins at 9:20 a.m. at Woodward and Putnam. The first units arrive at the front of Hudson's at 10:15 a.m. The 45-minute, two-and-one-half mile parade route ends at Woodward and Fort.

A favorite of Hudson's parade watchers is "Floating Freddie." This year Freddie is new in face and form. This giant clown towers 60 feet in the air and requires 11 handlers to hold him near the ground. "Peter Panda" is back too, but better than ever in his brand new balloon body which stretches some 35 feet long.

Santa himself is the star of the parade, pulled in his turquoise sleigh by eight reindeer, and surrounded by elves from his North Pole Workshop.

Additional parade groups are:

- Detroit Police Color Guard and Mounted Police Division.
- Cavalier Junior Drill Team from Sterling Heights, Mich., under the direction of Rod Currier.
- The Moslem Temple Legion of Honor of Detroit, Mich.

- Lucy Brown and the clowns of America
- 21 members of the champion Pontiac Unicyclists of Pontiac, Mich.
- Grass Lake Krazy Kars of Grass Lake, Mich.

- Five of Michigan's top roller skaters: Kurt Anselmi, member of the U.S. World Amateur Roller Skating Team and senior division eighth runner-up in the recent world championships; Terry Campbell and Grieg Patton, U.S. Freshman Dance Skating champions, and Anne Marie Green and Max Sielsky, U.S. Elementary Pairs Skating champions.

- The Rolladiumettes, a women's roller skating group from Pontiac, Mich.
- Michigan roller skaters from Skate World in Troy, Mich., and the Clawson Ambassador Roller Skating Rink in Clawson, Mich.
- The Moslem Temple Americans
- The Carol Kimmel Dancers of Royal Oak, Mich.
- The Zal Gaz Grotto Clowns of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Six Hudson's employees work on the parade year-round, with four others putting on the finishing touches as Thanksgiving Day draws near.

Hudson's has been presenting the parade since 1924, except for a two-year lapse during World War II when materials were in short supply.

Maynard's back

Maynard Ferguson and his orchestra will appear in concert at Clarenceville High's Auditorium, 20155 Middlebelt Road, Livonia, on Sunday and Monday, Nov. 23 and 24 at 8 p.m. Probably the most popular band on the road today, Maynard is making his 10th appearance at Clarenceville. His band mixes some standard jazz tunes with a lot of new and emerges with enough energy to leave the audience cheering long after the last incredible high note of Maynard's trumpet is sounded. Sunday's performance will be preceded by a mini-concert by the Clarenceville High Jazz Ensemble and Monday's by the Kevin Gibbs Quartet.

Load of Mischief ready

The Theatre Guild of Livonia-Redford has chosen for its musical "Man with a Load of Mischief," which was an off-Broadway hit but is little known outside New York.

Performances are scheduled for Nov. 21, 22, 23; Nov. 28, 29, 30; and Dec. 5, 6, 7; at 15138 Beech Daly, just south of Five Mile Road in Redford. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. (Sundays 7:30). The Nov. 21 performance will be followed by a coffee and dessert reception for the opening night audience.

For reservations or further information, call Mrs. Gregory G. Nelson, 30742 Ann Arbor Trail, Westland. When "Man with a Load of Mischief" opened in November, 1966, the New York Times critic freely admitted that he was prepared for disaster. His fellow critics shared his concern, for the original Ashley Dukes play on which the musical is based had not been a success when originally produced 40 years before.

Also, it was the initial venture of the musical comedy team of John Clifton and Ben Tarver, and the director and cast were relatively unknown. There had been only three preview performances and the advance sale amounted to exactly four tickets.

By the next morning this had all changed. The critics were unanimous in their praise with such comments as "a perfectly charming musical," "instant delight... few composers could equal this score," "spritely and ingratiating." There was a rush on the box office and "Man with a Load of Mischief" joined the ranks of only a handful of musicals which have become hits on the off-Broadway stage.

"Man with a Load of Mischief" is a tale of romance and intrigue set in a wayside inn in early 19th century England. A sudden accident to a coach and a gallant rescue bring to this inn four adventurous people - a lovely lady, her maid, Louise, a dashing lord, and his manservant, Charles. The stage is set for romance, something the innkeeper and his wife are eager to encourage so that their guests will extend their stay.

VAL SISTO

The lord and lady seem perfectly matched. "Such a handsome couple," sighs the wife. And so they are, but it turns out that the lord is more interested in his purse and gaining favor with the prince than he is in romance. The lady is the prince's mistress, and all too eager to run away and leave behind the kind of life the lord represents. The imminent arrival of the prince brings the intrigues, the stratagems, and the various affairs to a swirling climax.

Cast members are Delores Thomas of Livonia (the lady), Susan Tarnowski of Westland (Louise), David MacIntosh of Southfield (the lord), Doug Kerr of Plymouth (Charles), Val Sisto of Taylor (the innkeeper), and Betty Booher of Wayne (the innkeeper's wife). Dr. Ronald Worsley of Detroit, who teaches at Wayne State University and Henry Ford Community College, is director. Jack Pierson of Livonia is musical director and the choreographer is Mitzi Carol of Dearborn.

David Szabla as Jerry Cohan, Sandy McAleer as Nellie Cohan, Sharon Janda as Josie Cohan and Scott Maitland as George M. Cohan in the Bonstelle Theatre production of the all-American musical hit, "George M!," opening Nov. 28 at 8:30. For information and reservations call the Bonstelle Theatre Box Office at 577-2960.

Shari Lewis teams with Davey singers

SHARI LEWIS and her now-famous puppet, Lamb Chop, will be starred in the 11th annual Christmas show presented by Max Davey's Concert Series, Inc.

Concert Series, Inc.—better known as the Max Davey singers—will present its 11th annual Christmas Show this year starring Shari Lewis, the petite and charming darling of ventriloquism at 8:15 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 5 and Saturday, Dec. 13 in Detroit's Ford Auditorium.

Featuring familiar and traditional Christmas music, the 40 singers and dancers under the direction of Detroit's Max Davey also will present special music and arrangements written just for the happy holiday extravaganza and provide accompaniment for the talented Miss Lewis as she narrates Charles Dickens' famous "A Christmas Carol."

Miss Lewis will tell the story through the eyes of her now-famous puppets Lamb Chop and Charlie Horse.

THE AUDIENCE also will be invited to join in singing with the Max Davey group, which includes a number of singers from the areas served by the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers.

All the singers donate their services to the non-profit organization which was organized in 1962 by Davey, a veteran musician. Anything over expenses is donated to charity.

Choreography for the show will be done by Jim and Virginia Magon of Dearborn, who are well known in the Detroit area for staging musicals and industrial productions.

Set designs and costumes will be handled by Westlander Gary Papierski, who is best known for his work in designing floats for J.L. Hudson's Co.'s annual Thanksgiving parade. Papierski also has gained recognition as an artist and sculptor.

DAVID GLOFF, who appeared as an actor and singer in Detroit area musicals and opera, portrays Scrooge.

Miss Lewis' appearance in Detroit is particularly timely since she is due to open soon in a new television series on the NBC network called "The Shari Show." It will star 20 new puppets and, of course, Shari herself.

Concert Series, Inc. has been honored by being selected to perform another of its production, "America" in January in Lansing to help kick off the state's observance of the nation's Bicentennial.

To Max Davey and his wife, Margaret, who assists in the production, Concert Series is not only a life work but has become a sort of musical ministry as well.

The organization frequently appears at church services and sings for charitable causes. Both Daveys are native Detroiters and presently make their home in Farmington Hills.

Tickets for the Christmas show are available by contacting the Daveys. They will also be available at the Ford Auditorium box office the nights of the performance if there are any seats left. Ticket prices are $5.50 and $6.50.

Psychic returns

Gil Eagles, the psychic who set the Schoolcraft College campus rocking with disbelief and delight at his feats of ESP and hypnosis, is coming back by popular demand.

He will appear in the Waterman Campus Center, 18600 Haggerty Road, Livonia, on Tuesday, Nov. 25 at 8 p.m.

Eagles was born and raised in Tanganyika, East Africa, educated in London and has entertained thousands with his baffling demonstrations. Probably his most daring performance was riding a motorcycle around the brink of Snake River Canyon while blindfolded, before Evel Knievel's attempted jump in September of 1974.

Last year at Schoolcraft, he demonstrated his psychic powers by quoting U.S. currency serial numbers and revealing unspoken thoughts of volunteers from the audience. He hypnotized 12 volunteers, all at once, and changed them into characters ranging from Napoleon to Tarzan.

Because of Eagle's popularity, advance tickets are recommended and are available at the College Bookstore at $2.50 general admission and $1.50 for Schoolcraft students.

Sesame Street gang's on ice

That bright yellow, 8-foot canary, "Big Bird" and his pals "Cookie Monster," "Bert," "Ernie" and, of course, "Grover" make their second visit to Detroit as part of the Ice Follies which opens at Olympia on Wednesday, Nov. 26 and continue through Sunday, Dec. 7.

In this 1976 edition of Ice Follies, "Sesame Street" has some lively new music to go along with the "Sesame Street" theme song. "Big Bird" skates to "Hello How Are You," and "Bert" and "Ernie" say "Bon Jour" and "Buenas Dias" to everyone.

It's one of the friendliest production numbers in the show, with the characters shaking hands with eager kids in the audience. They'll even get to go for a ride on a toy train.

The Muppet costumes are designed and made in New York by the Children's Television Workshop, and each character is played by a featured Ice Follies skater.

Highlighting this year's bicentennial show will be "America's Sweetheart," Janet Lynn, in her third season with the show. The always debonaire, "Mr. Debonaire" Richard Dwyer celebrates his 26th season with the show and Mr. Frick, a master ice comedian, displays his Alpine antics, for his 36th year with Ice Follies.

Tickets are priced at $6.50, $5.50 and $4.50, available at Olympia, Grinnell's and Olympia Travel in Birmingham. Children (14 and under) are admitted at half price at all shows.

Franklin coach lauds work of linemen for leading Patriots into Class A finals

By JIM BRADLEY

Livonia Franklin football coach Armand Vigna credits "my two mid-gets" with making the Patriots a grid giant in the state high school pigskin picture after last Saturday's 12-9 semi-final win over Detroit Southwestern.

Offensive center Bob Gabel and left guard Rick Perez, who both are about 5-foot-9, 175 pounds, have been singled out for their outstanding, and many times overlooked, performances all year long.

As Franklin prepared for Saturday's historic clash with Traverse City in the first Michigan High School football title game ever, Vigna paused to praise two of his smaller linemen.

"Many of the other team members have gotten a lot of ink, and deservedly so," Vigna said, "but here's a pair of offensive linemen who quietly do their job against boys a lot bigger than they are. Bob and Rick did a whale of a job Saturday against a good Southwestern defensive unit, throwing key blocks the entire game to help us control the ball and the ballgame."

There's a very interesting story about Gabel, whose father Jack is a line coach for Livonia Stevenson, the only team to beat Franklin this year.

The senior Gabel has been Jack Reardon's assistant coach for eight years and there was quite a bit of mixed emotion when Stevenson beat Franklin, 13-10, for the only blot on the Patriots' record.

"I'm kinda caught in the middle," laughs Mrs. Gabel, who says she and her husband will be in the stands pulling mightily for Franklin and for her son, Bob, who has been named team captain of the week.

"Bob is very strong and has spent a year on the weights," Vigna points out. "He bench presses 350 pounds, has done a good, steady job all year and is playing harder every game."

Rick Perez uses his head as well as his body. "He's very sharp mentally," his coach appraised, "he uses finesse and knows the blocking angles and cutting off linebackers."

These two interior linemen will team with the other guard, Scott Mapes, tackles Bob Picard and Bob Suarez, tight end Rick Lee and either Darrel Gunter or John Elmore at the other end to provide the blocking power to move the ball against Traverse City.

"IT'S GONNA BE power football and it'll be won in the trenches," says Vigna. "Probably our key to winning is controlling the ball like we did against Southwestern and it'll be the offensive line's job to make the holes for Jim Casey and Tim Hollandsworth."

Vigna noted the necessity of keeping the ball away from Traverse City's high-powered offense which has averaged 34 points a game and demolishing Kalamazoo Central last Saturday, 35-6, in the other state semi-final game.

"We've more or less lived by our defense all year long and we'll have to count on them one more time," says Franklin's diminutive first year head coach.

"There are three boys on our defensive unit that I want to especially praise for a job well done—safety Larry Urban, right cornerback Al Acton and right outside linebacker Chuck Hensch," Vigna said.

"Urban was a JV quarterback and just didn't quite have the touch with his passing arm so he asked if he could play defense and he has been a starter all season long. He has made some really big plays this year, against Garden City East and John Glenn especially, hits very hard and is a team player all the way."

Vigna added: "It's kinda funny. Larry's continued practicing his passing and is getting better everyday but he is too valuable to us at safety."

Vigna, who played his prep football at Fordson in Dearborn, thinks Al Acton gives Franklin its best secondary in history. "Al's a quiet guy—probably hasn't said 10 sentences all year but he let's his playing do the talking for him. He has speed and is very quick reacting to the play, either coming up to make the tackle or covering the pass receiver."

CHUCK HENCH played one of his finest games ever on Saturday, according to coach Vigna.

"Chuck is another boy who hasn't gotten the attention he deserves. He plays right outside linebacker very well. He is tremendous against the screen pass and also gives a lot of pursuit."

He made a tackle just before the half Saturday that possibly saved a touchdown and then recovered a fumble that we moved for our game-winning field goal.

"On one play, he made a tackle on Mike Marshall all the way over on the other side of the field. That shows his great desire and pursuit."

Just a couple more days and the big moment will be here when Livonia Franklin and its host of unheralded players will get a chance to become the state football champion.

Another great running day like Jim Casey (45) had last Saturday and Franklin could well be state grid champion. (Staff photos by Art Emanuel)

Spartan swimmers finish second best

By JIM BRADLEY

"My girls did as well as they could," assessed coach Lois McDonald after her Livonia Stevenson swimmers had shattered four state pool marks but finished a distant second to powerful East Lansing, 203-166. And that was pretty good.

Carol Eggers, a Spartan junior, set two individual state records in the 50 yard freestyle and 100 yard backstroke and anchored her team's record-setting 200 yard medley relay time of 1:54.21.

Sophomore Linda Hein also set a record, carving out a time of 1:00.96 in the 100 butterfly and swam a leg of the record-setting medley team with Carol Eggers, Pixie Smith and Liz Hatfield.

Carol was easily the outstanding performer at Saturday's state meet held at U-of-M's Matt Mann pool in Ann Arbor. She stroked through the waters at record-setting pace, finishing the 50 free style in 25 seconds and the 100 backstroke event in 1:00.28.

"Carol's going two seconds faster than any girl has ever gone in the 100 backstroke in Michigan and that includes AAU," said Mrs. McDonald.

"She has so much natural talent. What makes her so great is that she is a fine team member, has a fine sense of humor and is a super person."

"On Friday, when the announcer stated she had an unofficial 59.9 in the preliminaries, a loud cheer went up from the other swimmers as well as the 1,000 fans on hand. That shows how popular she is with everyone."

Linda is only a sophomore and has a great future ahead of her if the recent season is any indication. "Linda swam her leg of the medley relay beautifully to help us win that event, then she came back and set a record in the 100 butterfly. She had a super day," said Mrs. McDonald.

Stevenson was leading by six team points after Linda took first in the 100 butterfly, but East Lansing's depth then took its toll and it went on to win its third consecutive state title.

"I knew we didn't have the depth to compete with East Lansing which is a four-year high school," said Mrs. McDonald, who was nominated for "coach of the year" honors.

Livonia Churchill finished ninth and Livonia Bentley finished 10th, the only other two area high schools in the top ten in the state.

Mrs. McDonald also had high praise for Pixie Smith, Liz Hatfield and Laura Kloote after Saturday's finals.

"Pixie swam her best time ever in finishing fifth in the 100 backstroke in 1:03.73."

"Liz swam faster in the consolation finals on Saturday by a full two seconds under Friday's preliminaries. If she could have reversed her performance, she'd have finished fifth in the state."

Likewise with Laura Kloote, according to the coach. "Laura swam faster in the 200 individual medley consolation than the fifth and sixth swimmers in the finals heat on Saturday. Laura also finished third in the 100 butterfly in 1:01.96, less than a second off Linda Hein's state record pace."

Other high area finishers were: Becky Stanley, Stevenson, third in 50 freestyle and 12th in 100 free; Marion Stanwood, Salem, was fifth in 500 free and ninth in 200 freestyle.

500 free: Lori Loomis, Stevenson, (7th) and Theresa Sieh (12th), Stevenson.

100 backstroke: Rena Cox (3rd), Livonia Churchill; Pixie Smith (5th), Stevenson.

100 breaststroke: Vicki Brown (2nd), Livonia Bentley.

ONE METER DIVING: Debbie Nicholls (3rd), Livonia Churchill. 200 individual medley: Linda Hein (4th), Stevenson; Liz Hatfield (7th), Stevenson; Laura Kloote (8th), Stevenson; Rena Cox (9th), Livonia Churchill.

200 YARD MEDLEY RELAY—Livonia Bentley's quartet of Bowman, Marshall, Sibert and Hawes finished sixth. Churchill's team of Cox, Cox Bryan and Reid came in 12th.

Schoolcraft soccer team disqualified

Coach Larry Christoff and his Schoolcraft College soccer team received a rude jolt this past week when the Ocelots were disqualified at the last minute and barred from participating in the Inter-Regional playoffs in Glen Ellyn, Illinois Friday and Saturday.

The decision by the national director was the result of a protest by Macomb County Community College. The protest involves the participation of Arthur Wyszynski, all-american candidate on Schoolcraft's state and regional champions, in a post-season game with a Detroit recreation soccer team.

"We're still a little stunned at this time and Dr. Marvin Gans, Schoolcraft's athletic director is meeting this week with the Region 12 director and the athletic directors of the other nine colleges of our region," Christoff said Tuesday.

Not only was Schoolcraft barred from the inter-regional championships, but the Livonia-based college was forced to give back the state and regional trophies it had won during the season.

"I'm just heartsick," Christoff said. "Here we work hard all year and compile an 8-1-1 record and then this happens. We had our bags all packed and were ready to go when we received word late Wednesday that we had been disqualified."

Because of the late date of the decision, neither Christoff nor Schoolcraft had a chance to file a defense against the protest. Another thing Schoolcraft officials don't understand is why Macomb and Henry Ford Community Colleges were notified of the local team's disqualification before Schoolcraft was.

"There are many unanswered questions that we are trying to find the answers to," Christoff said. Although not rejecting the national director's decision, Christoff is still confused on some of the details and technicalities on which the decision was based.

"I clearly advised the player, in front of Mr. Gans, that he'd be off the team if he did decide to play in the Sunday Detroit game," coach Christoff explained. "I explained that to the national officials involved, but they wouldn't accept it. Another thing, the season is over and I can't understand why Macomb would file a protest."

Christoff also said Wyszynski had been approved by the national directors to play a game in October for another team. "We'll just have to wait and see what develops from the meetings Dr. Gans is having with the officials," Christoff said.

SEED is planning holiday fundraiser

A Christmas party is being planned by SEED—Solidarity for Economic Education and Development—as a fundraiser to purchase educational filmstrips for the Plymouth Community School District.

The Christmas party will feature hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, a dance band, cash bar, and brief presentation on the filmstrip program.

The dance will be from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. Friday, Dec. 12, in the Plymouth Hilton Inn on Northville Road, Plymouth Township. Tickets at $10 per couple are available from Dan Herriman, SEED secretary, at The Fish Barrell or from SEED's office at 1075 W. Maple, Plymouth.

SEED is a non-profit organization whose members range in age from 16 to 20 and which is open in membership to all who may be interested.

The groups objectives are to: promote self-reliance, ambition, and responsibility as keystones in a productive life; to impress upon its members traditional "Austrian Economics" as defined by Prof. Ludwig VonMises, which encompasses every action of human life.

Also: to develop an ongoing belief in the free market system, prevailing in an atmosphere of a free and responsible society unencumbered by a paternal government; to educate others in society as to the benefits to be gained by combining sound economics with traditional values of American life as drafted in the U.S. Constitution.

And: to encourage factual, well-balanced education in the home, school, and in all institutions of learning, thereby allowing students in all settings the right to draw their own conclusions of on any subject using reason to arrive at truth; and, to direct projects in the interest of the community.

The filmstrips on economics will be purchased from the National Federation of Independent Business. SEED hopes to donate filmstrips for each of the elementary and junior high schools in the Plymouth Community School District.

For a symbol the SEED organization uses an olive branch stretching across the globe with the branch growing from a bulb—or seed. Its slogan is "Sparking a life long love affair, with learning."

Schoolcraft teacher exhibits

Working with water colors is delightful, according to Celia Kelly, art instructor at Schoolcraft College, who currently has a show of her work running at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

The exhibit will continue until Wednesday, Nov. 26 in the North Commons Gallery, 2101 Bonisteel, Ann Arbor.

"I love it," she says, adding that she turned to water colors because oil paints take a long time to dry.

Busy with her classes at Schoolcraft, Ms. Kelly paints in her spare time, and also arranges exhibits of her work in such faraway places as San Francisco.

She has also displayed her work in the Bloomfield Hills Gallery, in the Interstate All Womens Show in Traverse City, the Ann Arbor Art Association Teaching Gallery and the Michigan Artists Invitational Winter Art Fair.

In 1971 she had a one-woman exhibit in Marquette.

She has been on the teaching staff at Schoolcraft for 11 years. "I came in with the plumbing," she said.

Her courses include art history, art education for elementary school teachers and drawing classes.

She is also consultant and instructor in painting at the Ann Arbor Art Association Fine Arts School. She lives in Ann Arbor.

McKelvey interns in New York City

Mark McKelvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. McKelvey of Brookside Drive, Plymouth, has completed a summer internship at the Cathedral of St. John Divine in New York City.

McKelvey is a junior majoring in urban studies and is enrolled in Michigan State University's James Madison College—a residential college with a curriculum emphasizing a multidisciplinary approach to public policy programs.

HE GRADUATED from Plymouth High in 1972 and has been on the MSU dean's list for the past four terms.

He is a member of the MSU Union Board, a student organization which sponsors social events on campus. He also has worked for the past two years as a volunteer at the Ingham County Extended Health Care Facility for the aged.

During his internship this summer, McKelvey helped supervise "Picnic at the Cathedral," a program which sponsors social activities for senior citizens and provides them with information on social services.

IN CHOOSING this particular program, McKelvey said:

"I thought it would enable me to get a closer view of a city's bureaucracy and put me in touch with concerns of senior citizens."

McKelvey said he had in-depth conversations with many elderly persons about their personal thoughts and needs, did referral work, and was involved in budgeting and organizing programs.

The internship program is an integral part of MSU's overall educational philosophy which stresses a combination of work experience and academic training.

Canton wins in overtime

The Plymouth Canton High girls' varsity basketball team won an overtime struggle against Waterford Mott in its last league game of the season.

The Chiefs gained a 52-47 overtime victory, after the score was tied 47-47 at the end of the fourth quarter, by holding Mott scoreless during the overtime period.

The contest gave the Canton Chiefs a second place finish in the Western 6 league.

ington. The winner will play Northville Nov. 24.

In the junior varsity game, the Plymouth Canton JV girls lost to Mott 39-25. High scorer for the junior Chiefs was Laura Butler with 10 points. Both JV and varsity squads are now 12-4 for the season.

McSurely promoted

Hugh McSurely of Plymouth has received a promotion from the board of regents at University of Michigan-Dearborn.

McSurely assumes the title of instructor in the school of management.

In The Pocket

By W.W. EDGAR

For the first time this season, a woman has broken the 700 barrier in the metropolitan Detroit area.

Bowling in the Bowlerettes League last Monday night, Leona Pinkos, who is well known in the west suburban area, put together games of 213, 265 and 232 for a 710 series.

With this count, she bettered the previous season high of 686 bowled by Kathy Springs several weeks ago.

While this is the first 700 here, it failed to earn a place on the national honor roll where a 724 by Georgene Cordes of Bloomington, Minn., is in 10th place.

THE FIRST 700 of the season in the Westland Bowl senior house league was rolled by Jerry Cole. After games of 223 and 243, he jumped to a closing 251 for 717.

This gave him a big lead over his nearest rival, Bob Shonce, who had a 687, while Dan Emmett landed third

RU harrier, Westover earn plaudits

In Monday's All-Area cross country story, the final paragraphs concerning Redford Union ace John Shannon and coach of the year Dave Westover of Churchill were inadvertently omitted.

We apologize and want to point out some of the accomplishments of both.

JOHN SHANNON, Redford Union, has set records in all three years of his running for coach Mike Krafchak at RU. John holds the cross country record times as a sophomore, junior and this year as a senior.

He made All-Suburban 8 League by finishing fifth in the conference meet in 16:20, was RU's co-captain and finished 13th in the state regional a year ago.

John suffered the embarrassment of being knocked down three times in this year's regional but still fought back to capture 23rd spot.

"It's unfortunate John was knocked down," coach Krafchak said, "because if John had run his normal time over the Cass Benton Course, he would have finished about fifth."

Shannon's best time in the two-mile in track is 10:03. "John is not necessarily a natural runner, but he works extra hard and leads by example," Krafchak added.

COACH DAVE WESTOVER, Churchill: Named to lead the "Dream Team" as All-Area coach for 1975 is Dave Westover, who is in his 11th year of coaching in Livonia. He spent four years at Bryant Junior High before the past seven at Churchill.

Westover, a 32-year-old math teacher, has to use his specialty to 'Add' up his titles. The U-of-M graduate has guided Churchill to six consecutive Western Six Conference cross country titles and this year finished second in the state to Grosse Pointe North.

A graduate of Plymouth High School in 1961, Dave holds a BA degree from University of Michigan and a MA degree from Wayne State.

Dave and his wife, Glenda, have one son, three-year-old Scott, and live in Plymouth.

Westover's record includes 42 wins and nine losses in six years of dual meets at Churchill. His Charger teams have run up a glittering 26-0 record in league dual meets, developing 23 All-Western Six selections and five individual league champions in six years.

"This year's success can be attributed to a great amount of depth on our team. We lost several runners to injuries but were fortunate in being able to overcome those losses," Westover says.

"We've been fortunate at Churchill to have had good runners who have been dedicated to hard work and that hard work has really paid off in success for these young men," he said.

Garlow leads East in Crestwood win

Garden City East warmed up for this Friday night's state district basketball game by thumping Dearborn Heights Crestwood, 64-41, on its home court Tuesday night.

Coach Jan Moore's squad was never threatened as it romped to a 13-9 first-quarter edge, widened it to 31-18 and raced to a 56-24 third-quarter advantage.

Leading the Panthers' to their 13th win in 17 starts was 5-foot-11 junior center Sheri Garlow who pumped in 15 points for her best game of the year.

She's usually a defensive star, but played a good offensive contest along with guard Deb O'Neill who gunned in 14 points, many from the corner and on fast breaks.

Jeanette Fisher fired in 10 points and Julie Burton chipped in eight for the Panthers, who rate a good chance to take their district title at Dearborn Heights Annapolis.

A large cheer went up for Betty Fugabon when she entered the game for the final two minutes, her first appearance after a motorcycle accident injury sidelined her for much of the season.

with a 673, thanks to an opening 269.

While this scoring was going on, Greg Freed stole a bit of the spotlight for the week by converting the 7-10 split. He did it by bounding the No. 10 pin off the boards to swing across and drop the No. 7.

AT MERRI-BOWL, Al Pfohl became the man of the hour by going 174 pins over his average with a 636 rolled on games of 191, 224 and 221.

In the invitational doubles, Cheryl Mertz took top honors with games of 194, 201 and 212 for 607. Runner-up honors were shared by Bertha Simonsen and Rita Carveh, each of whom posted 587, and Betty Ott landed the next spot with a 583.

High single-game honors went to Gale Grinwicki with a 243.

BY A MARGIN of 17 pins, Roger Thorpe finished in the pacemaking role in the Garden Lanes Classic. He posted a 666 series to gain that edge on Bob Rose, who fired a 649, and Don Campbell landed third with 614.

In the Ladies Classic, Norma Johnson was high with a 601 that gave her a two-pin edge over Rose Lingner.

THE UNUSUAL happened in the Livonia Ladies Classic when Carolyn Niederhorn tied Janice Gale for the lion's share of the honors. Carolyn had a 522-105-627, while Janice rolled a 627 with the aid of a high single of 204-35-239.

In the other games, Dee Briggs won the opener with 197-35-232, and Pat Coombe took the second with 174-37-211.

A RECORD FIELD is expected in the annual Old Timeers Tournament at Thunder Bowl on Saturday, Nov. 27. Bowling starts at 11 a.m. with the banquet at 3 p.m. All area old timers are urged to get their entrees in . . . NOW.

THE SHARPSHOOTERS got back on track at Wonderland Lanes last week.

After going a week without a 700 series, they posted two of them with Fred Ringrose rolling a 703 and B.C. Nunnery an even 700. Fred got his when he closed with a 255 after games of 243 and 204.

Even the women got into the high scoring act when Arlene McNaught came through with games of 230, 219 and 215 for 664 to pace the Ladies senior house league.

STEVE LAINE couldn't stand prosperity in the Country Lanes open. After games of 244 and 235, he slumped to 209 for 688.

Bill Thomas suffered the same fate in the Friday loop when he dropped to 180 after counts of 212 and 222 for a 614 series.

For the second time this season, the "impossible" 7-10 split was converted at Bel-Aire Lanes. Harvey Rubenstein did it in the Classic to share the night's honors with Dave Zielinski, who was the top scorer with 645. Tom Galbraith was second with 636, and Don Scott had high game with 268.

Ayriora Wruck had a pleasant experience in the Westbrook Manor Loop when she posted games of 214 and 208 with 602—the first double century series.

Joe Lowe took top series in the mixed loop with 636, and Buzz Probst had high game with 257.

Here's how business people like you made the most of their promotional dollars with display ads in the Yellow Pages. You can, too. When customers come to the Yellow Pages they're already looking for someone like you. Don't hide. Tell them as much as you can. They want to know in detail who you are, where you are, what you sell and service, and when... plus any other information that makes it easier for them to buy from you. Help them make you more successful. Put complete information at their fingertips.

You can sell more when you tell more in the Yellow Pages.

Tell customers what brands you carry.

Some people will seek you out, no matter how far you are, if you carry the brand they want. Other customers need to know they will not be limited in their options when they visit your business. Tell them what you've got there... and they'll get there.

"Some types of advertising get tossed out, but the Yellow Pages is kept handy all year. We've been advertising in the Yellow Pages for 16 years and have found it to be the most effective advertising existing today. Over the years we have decreased our advertising space occasionally and found our business suffered as a direct result of it." — Jerry D. Kennedy, Lackey's Floor Covering, 4430 N. "When people come in and rent from us, more often than not they say they found us in the Yellow Pages. We're in five different Yellow Pages directories right now and, as far as we're concerned, the Yellow Pages carries the majority of our ad load for us. In our kind of business, we know we must advertise in the Yellow Pages to prosper!" — Irvin Kessler, Globe Interior Rental, 1100 East Maple Road, Troy.

Charge It!

Now it is even easier to advertise in the Observer & Eccentric Classified Section. Just dial our classified department, tell us what you would like to advertise and charge it, to your Bank Americard or Master Charge account.

Whenever you call, be sure to have your Bank Americard or Master Charge ready and give us the account number and expiration date directly from the card. Then the total cost of your ad will be billed directly to your monthly statement, simplifying your record keeping while earning money for you and your family.

You can benefit twice from this bonus by placing a Double Action Family Want Ad. Double Action ads run two consecutive issues for one low price of $6.00, with no changes or cancellations in the second ad. These 15 word ads save you $2.00 off the regular cost of placing an ad in two issues and are so easy to place now that you can charge them.

So arm yourself with a list of unwanted items and your favorite bank card and strike a blow against inflation by calling us today.
